Rumpus in Berlin Seen as Artificial

Observer Says Efforts May Be Directed at W. Germany

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The new rumpus over Berlin has an artificial, improvised look.

It seems to fall short of real crisis. The Communist challenge is directed more at the West German government than specifically at the United States or the Western allies.

Big fusses over Berlin come regularly every few years. In the past, the appearance of a Berlin crisis usually was a reflection of some sort of Soviet policy problem, domestic or foreign.

This time it is possible the East German Communists insisted something had to be done to challenge the West German Parliament's plan to meet in West Berlin Wednesday. But the East Germa. interference with land and air traffic to the isolated city undoubtedly was undertaken with Soviet approval.

In each successive crisis, the Russians evidently have hoped to make some sort of permanent gain from sanctioning and supporting harassment of air and autobahn traffic. Each time they have pulled up short of the dangerous showdown with the United States and the West.

This time Soviet policy makers, who have not been accomplishing much recently, might see some advantages in carefully heating up the Berlin atmosphere, but the operative word is "carefully."

Rescue Method A Surprise to 4 Spelunkers

Diver From Navy Dies as He Aids Last of Explorers

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark. (AP) — The first sight of a skin diver bobbing to the surface didn't surprise any of the spelunkers trapped in flooded Rowland Cave, says Hugh Shell.

"But we hadn't anticipated the diver suggesting we put on some skin diving gear and go back out with him under the water," said Shell in an interview Monday several hours after the tragedy-marred rescue. "We thought he'd bring in supplies and we'd wait for the water to fall."

Skin divers led Shell, 40, of Batesville, Ark., and three college students, one at a time, through the 200 feet of murky water to safety outside the cave.

Shell and the other spelunkers — Hogan Bledsoe, 20, of Lake Village, Ark., and Steve Wilson, 20, of Batesville, students at Arkansas Tech, and Mike Hill, 19, of Batesville, a student at Arkansas College — came through their more than 36 hours in the cave showing no ill effects.

One of the divers collapsed at the mouth of the cave and died after helping out the last of the four explorers. He was Chief Damage Controlman Lyle E. Thomas, 39, one of three Navy divers flown in from Washington to help the rescue effort. Dr. T. J. Burton, Stone County coroner, attributed Thomas' death to a heart attack.

Second Death Recorded for Shooting Spree

Young Student Goes Berserk in Mississippi Store

SUMMIT, Miss. (AP) — "I am God! The Negro is God! Nobody can do anything to me!" shouted Isaac Brown Jr., 22, a Negro college student, as he wounded five white persons — one of them fatally — and then shot his father to death.

The second victim of the shooting spree, Ed Smith, 45, died Monday night in a hospital in nearby McComb. His death was not disclosed by authorities until early today.

Brown was in custody in an undisclosed jail where officers rushed him following his capture a short time after he apparently went berserk in a hardware store.

Grave Condition

J.F. Schluter, 80, owner of the hardware store and Smith's uncle, was reported in grave condition.

The others, Smith's brother, Herbert, 51; Miss Julia Ioak, 43, the hardware store's bookkeeper, and Walter Roberts, 80, who was sitting on a bench outside the store, were recovering satisfactorily.

Officers related the events this way:

Brown entered the hardware store and asked to see a .22 caliber pistol. Ed Smith showed him the weapon and demonstrated how to load it.

Continued Shooting

Roberts, outside, heard the shots and began to slip away from the store. Brown stepped outside and shot him in the back, th reentered the store and continued firing.

He left the store and met his father.

A coroner's jury was told the elder Brown began backing away, crying, "Don't shoot! Don't shoot!"

The elder Brown was shot in the chest.

The youth then bolted for a house, which officers quickly surrounded After being slightly wounded, Brown was captured and handcuffed.

Authorities said the Elder Brown went to Tuskegee Sunday to bring his son home at the request of college officials.

Bombers Make 6 Flights

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — More than 120 Communist Viet Cong were killed and six Americans were dead or missing today in one of the bloodiest engagements in the Mekong delta in months, U.S. officials said.

Initial reports indicated that South Vietnamese government forces suffered more than 60 casualties, including about 16 killed.

The confirmed American dead were a U.S. Army officer and a U.S. Navy officer. Their deaths brought to 323 the number of Americans killed in combat in South Viet Nam since December 1961.

Crewman Missing

Four U.S. Army helicopter crewmen were missing and believed dead. Their aircraft was hit by 50-caliber Viet Cong machinegun fire and exploded in air.

The helicopter had been providing cover for a downed Vietnamese air force fighter-bomber.

A second U.S. Army helicopter was shot down while covering the same crash. Its four crewmen were rescued and were reported only slightly injured.

Heavy fighting was reported still in progress The scene was the Ca Mau Peninsula, about 130 miles southwest of Saigon.

16 Strikes

Elsewhere in South Viet Nam, 32 American strikes were flown, making today one of the heaviest days of air operations in South Viet Nam to date.

Military sources said a Communist captain was among the Viet Cong killed in the Ca Mau fighting. Many of the enemy casualties were reported brought down by fire from American helicopters.

An American source said the Viet Cong casualty count was confirmed by American officers.

East Germans Close Autobahn Second Time

Fresh Food Supply For West Berlin Is Being Affected

BERLIN (AP) — The East German Communists closed the Berlin autobahn for 4½ hours today and a Soviet jet buzzed West Berlin's big Tempelhof Airport.

The United States, Britain and France strongly protested the shutdown on the autobahn and a U.S. Air Force spokesman said the buzzing also would be protested.

The spokesman said a Soviet twin-engine plane came in from the east at 500 feet and swept across the field, which is heavily used by commercial airliners flying in and out of West Berlin.

"The visibility was good and there were observers who clearly saw the red star on the plane," the spokesman declared.

He reported a protest would be presented to the head of the Soviet group at the Berlin air safety center.

The U.S. Army reported that five Allied vehicles held up on the autobahn were allowed to proceed at 2 p.m. One U.S. military sedan was stopped at Babelsberg on the West Berlin end. At Helmstedt on the other end of the autobahn four Allied vehicles were detained.

There were no signs that U.S., British or French authorities were planning any strong measures. The East Germans closed the 110-mile lifeline linking the city with West Germany for 3½ hours Monday.

Senate Asked To Ratify U.N. Charter Change

Membership of Two Councils Would be Raised

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked the Senate today to ratify amendments to the United Nations charter to increase membership of the Security Council and the Economic Social Council

He said the amendments "will strengthen the ability of the United Nations to act as a force for peace and the progress of mankind."

Under one amendment, the size of the Security Council would be increased from 11 to 15 and the voting majority of the council from 7 to 9.

The size of the Economic and Social Council would be increased from 18 to 27 with the right of veto of the permament members not affected

Judge Continues Krebiozen Trial

CHICAGO (AP)—A U S District Court judge has continued on a day-to-day basis the trial of four promotors of Krebiozen.

Judge Julius J Hoffman said Monday that because defense attorney Maurice J Walsh is engaged in another case, he will keep the indictment pending and ready for trial when all counsels can participate.

The indictment charges mail fraud, mislabeling, conspiracy and making false statements in connection with Krebiozen — promoted by its backers as a cure for cancer The U S. Food and Drug Administration and the American Medical Association have termed it worthless as a cancer cure.

Under indictment are the drug's foremost endorser, Dr Andrew C. Ivy, once vice president of the University of Illinois, Dr. Stevan Durovic, a Yugoslavian immigrant who said he processed Krebiozen from horse blood, his brother, Marko, an attorney; and Dr. William F. P Phillips, a general practitioner and associate of the Krebiozen Research Foundation

Russian, Polish Pact Being Drawn

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Top Soviet and Polish leaders met behind closed doors today writing a new friendship treaty which appeared to be another move toward perpetuating the division of Germany.

Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, who, Monday began a five-day visit, had no scheduled public appearances except an evening piano concert.

British Set New Tax on Capital Gains

LONDON (AP) — The Labor government slapped a stiff tax on capital gains and corporation profits and outlawed most tax-free expense account spending today in its budget for 1965-66.

Also effective today, as previously announced by Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan, the basic British income tax rises from 38 75 per cent to 41.25 per cent

Outlining his budget to the House of Commons, Callaghan said he planned to raise a total of $700 million a year in new taxes and was determined to cut the outflow of British capital abroad by $280 million a year.

In 1964, he pointed out Britain's balance of payments deficit reached a staggering $2.086 billion, including a net capital outflow of $1,038,800,000.

Pope Reported About To Alter Church Law On Mixed Marriages

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI was reported today preparing a document extensively altering Roman Catholic Church law on mixed marriages, doing away with written promises from the non-Catholic and guaranteeing his or her religious liberty.

Italian papers speculated that the pontiff would shortly issue a "Motu Proprio," or personal administrative decree, altering the marriage section of the 46-year-old Code of Canon Law.

A Vatican official said, however, that the Pope would not publish such a document for some time. The official said a committee assigned by the Pope to review Church laws on marriage was still working out its recommended changes. The official is a prelate associated with that committee.

U. S. Protestants See Hope of Church Merger

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Church representatives, seeking a wide scale reunion among American Protestants, today saw a boost to their efforts in multiplying church mergers in other countries.

Describing a series of such Christian consolidations in Europe, Africa and Asia, the Rev Dr. William O. Wolf, an Episcopal theologian of Cambridge, Mass., said, "It has happened abroad. It is happening. It can happen here."

6 Denominations

Six denominations, with nearly 23 million members, are involved in the U.S. talks — United Presbyterians, Methodists, Episcopalians, Christian (Disciples) Churches, Evangelical United Brethren and the United Church of Christ.

Overseas counterparts of these denominations are among those cited as being united in other lands.

"Schemes for union such as the one we're attempting are taking place almost everywhere," said the Rev. James I. McCord, president of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary of Princeton.

On the other hand, a Methodist bishop voiced a go-slow note.

Bishop F. Gerald Ensley, of Columbus, Ohio, said his own church's plans for bilateral merger with the Evangelical United Brethren made it difficult to give attention just now to broader reunion.

Man Rescues Sister From Floodwaters

VERSAILLES, Mo. (AP) — A station wagon stalled on a flooded bridge over Indian Creek near Versailles Monday. The driver, Herman J. Knight, 48, of St. James, Mo., carried his wife, Lois, 45, and 15-month-old daughter, Cheryl Lynn, through the swirling water to safety.

Then he returned for his sister, Juanita Farmer, 55, who has arthritis. She had reached the rear bumper when a log hit the car, pushing it to the side of the bridge.

Knight grabbed his sister with one arm as the car went over the side of the bridge, grasped the log with the other arm and rode it about 100 yards downstream until they reached shore safely.

Selma Mayor Denies Tricking by Negro On Washington Visit

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Mayor Joe Smitherman denies that he and a companion were conned into paying a Negro man to find them some entertainment in Washington, D.C.

Deputy Police Chief Lawrence A. Hartnett reported in Washington Monday that James Edwards, 44, a Negro, had been arrested on a charge of grand larceny by trick. He was picked up, Hartnett said, after a tipster told police a man was bragging about conning the mayor of Selma.

Radio Hanoi Boasts More MIG Kills

TOKYO (AP) — Radio Hanoi said today MIG fighters surprised a formation of U.S. fighter-bombers on a raid over North Viet Nam Saturday and "shot down a number of them." It boasted also that a lone MIG pilot routed four U.S. planes attempting to strike back at the Communist jets.

The North Vietnamese claims contradicted reports by U.S officials in Saigon. The American authorities said three Soviet-built MIGs showed up during a raid by U.S. Navy planes on a bridge 65 miles south of Hanoi Saturday, but darted into heavy haze without tangling with the American planes.

Service Evaluates All Tips

Informers Help IRS Catch Tax Delinquents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 100,000 informers help the Internal Revenue Service each year by providing tips on people who haven't paid their taxes.

The IRS says many do so "from patriotic motivation or civic duty." A few get paid for it.

The number of persons providing such tips has grown steadily.

An IRS spokesman said the service doesn't solicit income tax tips but merely evaluates those that come in and follows them up if an investigation seems warranted. He noted that the FBI and other law enforcement agencies use informers routinely.

Preliminary Checks

Only one out of every 10 tips results in even a preliminary investigation.

In the fiscal year which ended last June 30, the service collected $18.1 million as a result of tips compared with $12.7 million in the previous year.

The IRS paid $565,000 to 822 informers last year.

It has accepted tips for many years although the practice has been criticized by those who contend the informers are seeking revenge or pehaps are merely envious of a wealthy neighbor or employer.

A Congress member who heard from some of his constituents on the subject asked the service for an explanation.

According to some reports, the IRS pays a flat 10 per cent of the additional taxes collected to an informer after deducting collection expenses, but this could not be confirmed.

Tipster's Reward

During the last fiscal year, 14,494 persons applied for rewards but only 822 were allowed. The average payment was about $800.

The IRS figures indicated that about 95,000 persons offered tips in fiscal 1964.

Surrender of Bataan Recalled

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — One of the darkest hours of World War II will be recalled Friday when a white flag of surrender is raised over the New Mexico Capitol grounds.

The flag will commemorate the 23rd anniversary of the American surrender of Bataan in the South Pacific to the Japanese in 1942.

Manuel Armijo of Santa Fe, a survivor of the Bataan death march and now director of the State Veterans Service Commission, will raise the flag with little fanfare as he has done each April 9th for several years.

Khrushchev Wishes for World Peace

Newsmen Meet Former Red Chief At Moscow Exhibit

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev has broken six months of silence on political matters with a new demand for peaceful coexistence, a Scandinavian correspondent in Moscow reported today.

Lars Bringert of the Copenhagen Politiken and the Swedish Dagens Nyheter reported that he encountered the former Soviet premier and his wife at an art exhibit in Moscow Monday.

"I want peace for everyone and wealth for everyone," Bringert quoted Khrushchev as saying "The politics of the peaceful coexistence one founded must continue."

By "one" Khrushchev obviously meant himslf, Bringert said.

"The world must coexist," Khrushchev continued, shaking his forefinger in customary fashion. "No alternative can be found.

"Trying to solve controversial questions with weapons is a practice that must belong to the past or we will be thrown in disaster. It would begin in a small way like in Viet Nam and finish in destruction That is why I want peace for the whole world."

King Defends Action Against Alabama

Boycott Designed to Force White Hostility Into Open

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. predicted today that a planned boycott of Alabama will produce action toward removing racial inequities despite "a temporary bitterness and alienation of people."

King said in an interview that a three-stage economic withdrawal was necessary in order to bring hostility and discrimination into the open in Alabama and force the white citizens to deal with these factors.

Economic Withdrawal

Answering criticism from various sources, King said the boycott would not cause more harm than good to the civil rights cause.

"It will do just what critics think it won't," he said.

The boycott was announced last week after King met with the executive board of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference which he heads. The economic withdrawal is part of an Alabama civil rights drive, centering on Negro voting, now in its 12th week.

King said he hoped the threat of the boycott alone would produce the desired results. But he said that before calling off the boycott, he would want commitments on voting rights and other issues from Gov. George C. Wallace and Alabama's political leadership.

The Negro minister, winner of the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize, also said some form of demonstrations would continue in Alabama until Congress acts on the new voter rights bill.

Here are questions and answers from the interview:

Q. Are you going through with the Alabama boycott?

A: Yes. Very definitely.

Final Plan

Q: It has been reported that the final plan is a softening of your original statement — a backing off of a massive withdrawal program. Is this true?

A: I wouldn't say it was a backing off. When I made the proposal it was in terms of a general boycott. If there's any softening it's only to give Alabama a chance for the decent people and moderates to rise up.

(Under the plan announced, the three stages of the boycott

Teens Work, Play for Good Causes

Appleton youth got into the swing of giving for the community last weekend. High School students from Appleton High, Xavier and Fox Valley Lutheran worked throughout the afternoon hours Sunday in a door to door solicitation on behalf of the Easter Seal Society. The hard working young people turned in about $3,400 when they met at St. Joseph School after canvassing the city's wards.

Saturday evening the Junior High set made its community contribution by attending a Red Cross Benefit Dance at the Teen Center at the YMCA. There they played pool, watched television, played ping pong, and, of course, danced. A combo was on hand to provide favorite songs.

Annual Fund Drive Started by the League

The Appleton League of Women Voters Monday kicked off its annual finance drive to raise $1,450 for its activities.

Twenty-one members attended the drive orientation meeting at the home of Mrs. R. H. Reeves, 2100 N. Morrison St., drive chairman.

Mrs. Reeves said that this week 49 league members would contact about 200 Appleton citizens, businesses and professional people for contributions. She said $307 has already been raised through letter solicitation.

This year for the first time the league will not ask any one person for more than 10 per cent of the total goal, or $145.

At its recent annual meeting, members voted this change primarily because it did not want to become dependent upon large contributors.

The league has 96 members and it strives to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation in government.

This year the league will study the public welfare services of Outagamie County.

Remove Furniture Wax With Special Cleaning Solution

Here's advice on how to remove sticky film and restore lustrous finish. Clean furniture with a solution made of one quart warm water to which one tablespoon turpentine and one tablespoon olive oil have been added. Swirl a soft clean cloth in the mixture and wring it out. Rub the furniture briskly. Repeat until the excess wax is removed and the surface is clear. Dry with a soft cloth. Apply a thin coat of paste wax and buff well. To prevent wax buildup, buff the surface of the furniture often, and always use wax sparingly.

Your Problems

And Another Woman Fell For 'The Same Old Lines'

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For the first time in two years I have found peace of mind. I want to share it with you.

Ann Landers

I was one of those foolish women who felt my husband didn't appreciate me, so I wandered. My sweetheart was married, too, but his wife was not well. (Are they ever?) He assured me tha. when she was stronger and able to accept the blow he would ask for a divorce and we would be married.

Suddenly his wife died of a heart attack. This put him in an embarrassing position—one which he did not expect, I am sure. He told me he could not ask me to leave my husband and that I should forget him.

His wife has been dead less than three months and already he has been seen squiring two rich widows and a loaded divorcee. I would like to warn these women to listen for the following phrases: "How sad that we did not meet years ago. We could have had a beautiful life together." Or this one: "I would know your hands anywhere—just by the touch." And of course: "This is the most extraordinary thing that has ever happened to me. It's like a novel."

So beware girls. That Dreamboat could be the Heel.—Burned and Cured

Dear B and C: And I hope you will take your own good advice Petunia. Lonely women have a tendency to repeat the same sorry mistakes.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a boy who will soon be 17 years old. I was fed up arguing every time I wanted a couple of bucks so I got myself a job after school and on weekends. This has cut me out of a lot of social activity, but it is worth it, because I don't have to beg any more.

Now I have another problem. My dad thinks he ought to tell me how to spend my money. I think I should be able to spend my money on anything I want. Right now I'm ready to pack my gear and move out of the house. I decided to write to you first and listen to what you have to say.—Mitchell

Dear Mitch: I'd like to suggest a compromise. I don't know how much money you are earning but if you will open a savings account and put away half of it you should be allowed to spend the other half as you please -- no questions asked.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Many of my friends have pre-school children. Most of these young mothers have good sense, but three or four in our crowd insist on dragging their children every place they go—this means to club meetings, luncheons, downtown shopping, and even to the beauty shop.

What is the matter with them anyway? My children are grown but when they were small I wouldn't have dreamed of taking them where they did not belong.

Yesterday I attended a church luncheon and two women brought their three-year-olds. The kids climbed all over their mothers, whined, cried, interrupted conversations and spoiled the day for everyone.

Most of these mothers discuss your column as if it were the Bible. Will you please say something about mothers who drag their young children everywhere? They'll take it from you. —Long Suffering

Dear Suff: Mothers who take their youngsters everywhere do so because it is easier (and cheaper) than hiring a sitter. They don't realize how unfair it is to their children as well as to the women who don't care to share their day out—often their only day out in the week—with three-year-olds.

To solve some of the frustrations, disappointments and disillusionments of married life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A Royal Row Takes Place in The Netherlands' First Family

Crown Princess Beatrix of The Netherlands has just passed her 27th birthday and does not appear as concerned about her marital status as some of her countrymen. Spaniards and Italians have been ruled out as possible consorts. Germans and Americans are still eligible.

BY PRESTON GROVER

THE HAGUE, Holland, (AP) — The Dutch sense the presence of the royal family in Holland far less than the French feel the presence of President Charles de Gaulle, but at the moment it is a fairly lively subject of fireside conversation.

Largely it has to do with Crown Princess Beatrix, who has just passed her 27th birthday, and has not yet found a prince to her liking.

Twenty seven is by no means a very advanced age for a woman not to be married. The problem is that the princely prospects are not very abundant these days. One serious source in The Hague said it could happen that she might marry an American if a suitable one showed up. But he hastened to add that none was in sight, and that a more likely probability was that the princess' royal eye would turn toward Germany where her mother, Queen Juliana, and her grandmother, the late Queen Wilhelmina, found their husbands.

"It won't be a French or Italian prince, and above all no Spanish," a well-placed informant prophesied. Princess Irene married Carlos Hugo of Bourbon-Parma, prince of Madrid, pretender to the Spanish throne, became a Catholic and created a furor. Before she could go ahead with it she had to renounce her right to succession to the throne — she was No. two after Beatrix.

Beatrix' chosen prince must become consort to the queen of the Netherlands, and not be hunting a crown in his own right. Besides, by long tradition, the ruling family must belong to the Reformed Dutch Church, which is Protestant.

The Dutch seem fairly well satisfied with their royal family, even though they wouldn't mind if one of these generations a royal prince would come along. The last male ruler, William III, died in 1890 and the country has been a matriarchy since. Wilhelmina became queen at age 10, even though she began ruling only at 18. She was followed by Juliana, who took over when Queen Wilhelmina abdicated in September 1948, because of poor health, and retired to her palace at Soestdijk. There she died in 1962.

Married At 27

Juliana was born April 30, 1909, and married Prince Bernhard of Lippe-Biesterfeld Jan. 7, 1937, when she was 27. Thus the family is not traditionally in a hurry to rush to the altar.

The family has had its problems, quite apart from Princess Irene. Juliana herself has stirred up the country by her disposition to seek the company and advice of religious mystics. Her insistence on keeping Griet Hofman at her side because Miss Hofman promised to heal the near blindness of Juliana's youngest daughter, Maria Christina, provoked such a crisis in the country in 1956 that the government had to step in.

Apparently at the insistence of Prince Bernhard, Griet Hofman was expelled from the royal palace. She immediately took up residence at Soesdijk under the protecting arm of the Dowager Queen Wilhelmina.

Reports were current at the time that the Griet Hofman affair almost drove Prince Bernhard away from Queen Juliana. That situation brought one of the more touching moments associated with the crisis. Queen Juliana, who regularly gives a Christmas talk over the radio, chose that time to appeal to her people to show some of the kindly virtues.

"Why do we try to drive a wedge between a husband and a wife?" she asked. The country got the word.

Small Country

Being a royal family in Holland is not easy. The country is small and every time one of the family steps out of a palace she is virtually in the center of the market place. They take their vacations abroad, often in Italy or Switzerland, seeking more privacy than is available at home.

The family includes a fourth princess, Margriet, 22, who is now second in line to the crown after Beatrix. Margriet's engagement to a commoner, Pieter van Vollenhoven Jr., 25, was announced March 10 by Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard at Soestdijk. The royal family showed much pleasure at the engagement, and Parliament is expected to approve the union, thus protecting Margriet's right of succession.

Popular Prince

Prince Bernhard has proved a popular member of the family, and has been especially active since the war as a promoter of Dutch business abroad. He is widely credited with opening a considerable number of South American markets. Members of the family from time to time visit the tiny Dutch possessions in the Caribbean, and Beatrix plans such a visit soon.

The family lives on a budget voted by Parliament. Beatrix' income was fixed at about $80,000 in 1962. The queen gets $375,000 and Prince Bernhard $75,000. A large part of it goes to wages of the palace staff and pensions for servants. Members of the family live well, but not lavishly.

Prince Bernhard once commented that "in the nation it is my wife who rules, in my home it is I." The Dutch have noted some exceptions to that.

There is no hint in Holland that Juliana plans to retire soon. Her health is good and the country is prosperous. Princess Beatrix dedicates bridges and opens festivals. She commented in an interview for her 27th birthday that she didn't expect to be queen soon.

"I don't expect this to be happening within the next 20 or 30 years."

She also commented that the constant attention of the press was interfering with her geting married Every time a young man takes her to her car, she said, he is likely next morning to find himself a famous suitor in the foreign press.

Met JFK

She visited America in 1963 and met President John F. Kennedy.

"I rarely have met anybody with whom it was so easy to establish immediately a personal contact," the princess said later.

It was Bernhard who first commented "why not" when he was asked if Beatrix might marry an American. But seasoned court commentators feel it is not likely.

"It would be well," said one of them, "if she took a quiet holiday sometime soon in Germany many."

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Fashion's Pale Look

The freshest fashion approach is the pale look in accessories. Both French and American designers endorse such pales as ash blond, mushroom and bleached taupe—especially for wear with daytime costumes in flower colors or in the gray and beige range.

The look is at its best when accessories are worked in gradations of a single neutral. To exemplify: a pale, dry, barely tan shoe; a "nude" stocking with honey glints; a glove and handbag in coffeemilk tones, the first very light and the second somewhat darker.

Now, if you imagine that assemblage with a gray suit or a marigold coat, you will get a picture of fashion at its most subtle and elegant. You will see, too, the total effect is worth any effort it may take to achieve.

Complimentary Accessories

And to collect accessories that complement, rather than match each other does take time and a sharp eye. So be prepared!

Jewelry is also important to the scheme. It should be delicate, fine and precious looking. That makes pearls a topflight choice. For another, there are small enamel pins with motifs from the flower and animal kingdoms. Three of them, scattered on a lapel, provide a just right touch. In pastel enamels and golden metals, bangle bracelets and fragile necklaces are selections par excellence.

From shoe to earbob, the password to the pale look is delicacy—of both shadings and shapes. A clumsy handbag, how ever pale, would spoil the end result.

In fashion, nothing makes you lovelier than color. It can enhance your skin, hair, eyes and figure; it can express your individuality and style. Great powers, those! To learn how to put them to work for you, read our leaflet. To obtain a copy, send your request to Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin.

The Ailing House

Chipped Enamel Cabinets

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: I have steel kitchen cabinets, white enameled. Can I paint over areas where the enamel is chipped off?

A: Yes. Enamel for touching up worn or chipped areas on appliances is available in spray form (easiest to apply) or in touch-up "pens," or as a product to be applied with a brush. Whichever form is used, follow label instructions. However, "white" varies slightly from product to product, and you may not achieve a perfect color match.

Q: Our home has standard baseboard hot water heat. When our circulator turns on and the hot water flows through, heating the radiators, we get expansion noises — some as loud as a rifle firing. How can we get rid of these noises? We bled the lines to make sure there is no air in them, and drained the system to make sure it is not waterlogged.

A: As the metal expands during the heating, vibration is set up. The metal supports for the horizontal lengths of heating pipes may be too loose or too far apart to absorb the vibration, creating the noises as the pipes rub against the supports. Examine the supports in the cellar (or crawl space) and either tighten them or add additional supports. Placing pads of foam rubber or plastic between the pipes and supports will also help eliminate the noise. Or the noise may be due to the pipes rubbing against wood, where they go through floors, etc. In this case, special sound-absorbing collars are available at plumbing supplies dealers, to be installed at these friction points.

Syphilis Rate Increasing in The Newborn

BY ELIZABETH STEWART

Most of us think of syphilis as exclusively an adult's disease but, alas, it is not. Adults can and do pass it on to infants at an alarming rate. Between 1960 and 1963 syphilis among the newborn-to-one year ago group jumped nearly 180 per cent, according to the U. S. Public Health Service Communicable Disease Center, reflecting the rise in syphilis in the adult population.

To protect babies and mothers, Dr. William J. Brown, director of the center's Venereal Disease Branch, urges that all pregnant women should be blood tested for the disease both early and late in pregnancy so prompt treatment can be started if necessary. Treatment during the first 18 weeks of pregnancy will prevent infection of the baby. Proper treatment even later may cure the baby although it can't prevent possible damage to bones and teeth.

Careful examination of babies whose mothers have had no prenatal care or who gave birth without medical attention. Reporting by private physicians of all cases so that these can be treated and followed up.

If there is even the slightest suspicion that the disease has been contracted, see a doctor promptly. You'll have yourself, and your child, a lifetime of heartache.

Don't Let Side Issue Distract You

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD
National Men's Team Champion

In some bridge hands declarer must try to develop his tricks and dispose of his losers before the defenders can snaggle them. One good way to lose such a race is to waste time on side issues instead of sticking to the point.

When West opens a low club South must put up dummy's ace since the finesse is just a side issue. The main chance is to develop the diamonds, and declarer leads a low diamond from dummy at the second trick.

Opening lead — ♣ 5

East steps up with the king of diamonds and cashes the king of clubs. Then he switches to the queen of hearts. South takes the ace of hearts, draws one round of trumps with the ace and then leads a diamond to dummy's ace. Since there have been no outlandish breaks in trumps or diamonds, South knows that the contract is now assured.

Ruffs Diamonds

South ruffs a diamond with a high trump, leads a trump to dummy's jack and ruffs another diamond high. He leads a trump to dummy's queen, which draws the last trump, and cashes dummy's last diamond to get rid of a heart. South loses only one heart, one diamond, and one club.

South loses the race if he takes time out for the club finesse at the first trick. East wins with the king of clubs and switches to the queen of hearts. When the defenders get their diamond trick they cash two hearts, defeating the contract.

The club finesse is a side issue because it gives South only an even chance. The odds are better than 3 to 1 that trumps and diamonds will break well enough to let him set up and cash a diamond trick.

Daily Question

As dealer, you hold: S A K 10 9 4 3; H A 6 5; D 9 4; C 8 4. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one spade. You have 11 points in high cards and 2 points for the doubletons. This is enough for an optional opening bid, and you should exercise that option since you have an excellent major suit and 3 quick tricks. In fact, you should open the bidding even if one of your low spades were changed to a club or diamond.

Couple Drives Out Ghosts in Haunted Houses

BY JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP) — It's a rare wife who, when she says she'd like to go out this evening, gets taken to a haunted house.

It's a rarer wife who is delighted.

But then, Catherine Holzer was born in a dark, medieval castle in South Tyrol tthat boasted a whole repertory of ghosts.

She can sit quietly for hours waiting for an alleged apparition to appear.

Defines Ghost

"We believe that a ghost is generally the surviving personality of a human being who died under emotional stress and keeps living over and over the last traumatic moments at the scene of violence," Catherine says.

"When Hans goes to a haunted house he takes along a medium — good ones are hard to find, by the way — because he isn't advanced enough psychically, o rsensitive as it's called, to get the necessary impressions. The medium goes into a trance and the alleged ghost operates her vocal cords and speaks directly to Hans. It tells him its troubles and he helps it find peace. The spirit leaves the place it has been haunting and everybody is greatly relieved."

She also is a talented artist who combines painting with ghost hunting.

Paints Setting

"If the setting looks interesting enough I paint it, trying to capture the atmosphere of the place," she says.

The Holzer apartment is hung with Catherine's moody recreations of haunted houses in the West Indies and the United States. She plans to put some of Europe's spookier spots on canvas this summer.

That will be after Hans, author of "The Ghost Hunter," sees his latest book published, "Ghosts I've Met,' and finishes filming a documentary television series on his favorite subject.

Catherine insists that daughter, Nadine Joan de Buxhoeveden Holzer, almost 2, plays the harmonica with precocious skill.

"Nadine is also probably somewhat psychic — children frequently are more so than adults — but we all are to a certain extent," says Catherine.

"I think I am slowly developing it. Now when the phone rings, for example, I know who is calling before I pick up the receiver."

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M Duvall, Ph.D and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

False. Millions of persons are lonely today. In one recent year there were 12 millior women, once married, who had to carry on alone. Of these, 8 million were widowed, 2 million were divorced, and 2 million were separated. When problems arose they had no partner to help and no husband to turn to for comfort. Millions of other men and women are lonely even in the midst of their families. Each of us must learn to be alone without feeling lonely, to carry on without feeling sorry for ourselves.

There is much more on this subject included in the best-selling booklet, "How to Manage Your Feelings and Emotions." To get your copy, send 25 cents and a stamped, return envelope to "Let's Explore Your Mind," care of the Post Crescent.

Patience Is Big Factor in Speeding Up Development

BY DR. EVE JONES

DEAR DR. JONES: My son is 2½ and is very slow and clumsy, although he isn't mentally retarded in any way. But he doesn't speak clearly as yet and I want to know if we should get a speech therapy for him or what? His hearing is fine and there's nothing wrong with his speech apparatus.

Dr. Jones

DEAR MRS. D.S.: Speech therapy doesn't speed up naturally slow development, so you don't need such help for your son. Patience will help. So will talking plainly and often to your son, but not asking him to talk to you or to repeat whatever he says indistinctly. New studies suggest that slow development is helped if children practice crawling and creeping a half hour a day. Try it, won't you. It can't hurt.

DEAR DR. JONES: I have a kind of toilet problem I'd like you to solve. It's not the usual problem. (I'm following your advice and I'm not toilet training my child. I'll just wait until she decides to use the toilet by herself. She's 20 months old now and I suppose she'll be average and start using the toilet in about another four to six months.)

My problem is that she likes to splash around in the toilet bowl. In fact, she can spend a half hour or so just playing there, flushing the toilet, pouring water from one can into another, and generally making a mess. But it's easy to clean up, it keeps her amused, and I make certain she doesn't touch her face until I get her thoroughly cleaned up. So I can't see why I should stop this.

A neighbor, however, said this will give my daughter confused ideas about what a toilet is for and that I should give my daughter a dishpan of water to splash in. That isn't the same, though, and my daughter knows it.

What do you think?

DEAR MRS. D.F.: There's nothing confused about your daughter's appreciation of the toilet. Right now, it's to splash in. Later on, she'll find another use for it. When that happens, remember to let her have a dishpan to splash in.

Need Probe of Contributions To Campaigns

Corrupt Practices Act Is Interpreted Narrowly by Court

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Will the "Great Society" be an honest society? Will an exposure of the corruption in politics which was witnessed in the 1964 presidential and congressional campaigns be undertaken by Congress? Will public sentiment demand it?

There is for instance, a law on the statute books known as the Federal Corrupt Practices Act But thus far it has been narrowly interpreted by the

Lawrence

Supreme Court of the United States Congress has made no effort to correct the omissions which are plainly indicated by the rulings of the high court

The existing statute makes it unlawful "for any corporation whatever, or any labor organization to make a contribution or expenditure in connection with any election at which presidential and vice presidential electors or a senator or representative in or a delegate or resident commissioner to Congress are to be voted for, or in connection with any primary election or political convention or caucus held to select candidates for any of the foregoing offices, or for any candidate, political committee, or other person to accept or receive any contribution prohibited by this section."

Defines Union

The same law defines a "labor organization" as one "in which employees participate and which exists for the purpose, in whole or in part, or dealing with employers concerning grievances, labor disputes, wages, rates of pay, hours of employment, or condition of work"

In order to get around this statute, separate organizations have been set up under the direction of officials of unions and others active in the labor-union movement. Because these organizations are not supported by the regular dues of union members but depend instead on "voluntary" contributions, they have come to be regarded as immune from the prohibitions set forth in existing federal law.

The Supreme Court has discussed the subject in two important cases. One was decided in 1948 and dealt solely with a labor-union publication distributed among its own members or subscribed for by those members. The second case, which came up for decision in 1957, involved the propriety of a union's expenditure in sponsoring a broadcast that went "to the public at large" Justice Frankfurter, in setting forth the opinion of the court, differentiated the 1957 case from its predecessor in 1948 as follows

House Organ

"The decision in that case (1948) rested on the court's reading of an indictment that charged defendants with having distributed only to union members or purchasers an issue of 'The CIO News,' a weekly newspaper owned and published by the CIO That issue contained a statement by the CIO president urging all members of the CIO to vote for a certain candidate Thus, unlike the union-sponsored political broadcast alleged in this case (1957) the communication for which the defendants were indicted in CIO was neither directed nor delivered to the public at large The organization merely distributed its house organ to its own people

"The evil at which Congress has struck in section 313 is the use of corporation or union funds to influence the public at large to vote for a particular candidate or a particular party"

Since these cases were decided, the labor unions have set up what they call "voluntary" organizations, which presumably have an entirely different personnel from the labor unions and derive no financial support from the regular union organizations or from dues collected by those organizations

But there is no doubt that labor-union officials often participate in conferences with the separate or "voluntary" organization and that there are frequent consultations between the two groups relating to political activities in support of particular candidates for federal offices.

"Anything of Value"

The federal corrupt practices act describes a "contribution" as "anything of value." Hence, if a union or corporation furnishes to the "voluntary" outside organization the part-time services of its executives or officials or members while they are being paid for that time by the corporation or union, the donation of such services is open to question in the courts.

The fact remains that the political activities of labor groups involve the collection and expenditure of more money than is usually raised or spent by many of the local organizations of either the Republican or the Democratic party throughout the country.

So the real problem is whether the rights of the American people, who deserve to have fair elections, are being violated through loopholes in the law or by indifference to the enforcement of the law Certainly when millions and millions of dollars are being spent to influence elections and when something which is prohibited directly is being done indirectly, this is an issue which is of vital concern to all the people who believe in "law and order" or what has lately been emphasized again and again as "strict enforcement of the law of the land"

42 Degrees Month's High

Five Low Temperature Records Set in March

March temperatures averaged five degrees below normal, making it the third coldest March since weather records began at Wisconsin Michigan Power Co in 1927.

The first week of the month was quite mild with temperatures reaching the low 40s on five days. The month's high of 42 was observed on March 1, which in itself is quite unusual. Temperatures normally warm up during March. March 27, 1945, holds the record high for the month with 75 degrees.

Cold weather set in on the 10th and persisted the rest of the month The month's low of two degrees below zero on the 20th was one of five new daily record lows established during March It also set a new record for extending the date of the last below zero temperatures in winter Previously, March 18, 1941, held the record for the last below zero day with a temperature of -3 degrees.

To make it seem even worse, spring began, according to the calendar, on March 20. By the weather, one would think winter had just begun since the temperature range that day was from two below zero to 19 above with eight inches of snow on the ground. No signs of spring were apparent as the month ended.

Worst Blizzard

The winter season's worst blizzard began early on St Patrick's Day and continued on until early afternoon the next day dropping a total of 8 3 inches of snow. The monthly total of 16 9 inches was the greatest since 1959 and 7 2 inches above normal Melted snow plus rain early in the month totaled 3 03 inches or 1 26 inches above the normal March precipitation

An additional 1,236 heating degree days were added during March to bring the season's total at month's end to 7 197 degree days Corresponding data one year ago were 1,094 and 6,212 degree days respectively

The wind velocity averaged 9 5 mph for March with a prevailing direction from the northwest. Peak gusts exceeded 35 mph on four days, the highest being 43 mph on the 5th There were seven clear, nine partly cloudy and 15 cloudy days in March

April normals in Appleton include a mean temperature of 44 1 degrees, 2 60 inches of precipitation and 1.6 inches of snow Snowfall has already been exceeded as four inches fell before noon on April 1

County Judge William Buenzli entered an innocent plea for Thomas and ordered him held for a preliminary hearing April 14 Bail was fixed at $30,000

Thomas told the court he had been working in Madison for the last six months, coming here from Kansas City, Kan

The charges carry a maximum of 45 years in state prison upon conviction

Schiro was working briefly in the store owned by his brother Frank, when the gunman masked with a handkerchief, demanded the store's money Schiro said he thought the gun, a 22 caliber revolver was unloaded, and asked the man "who he thought he was kidding."

After the gun fired, Schiro overpowered the gunman and later discovered at police headquarters that the bullet had struck his badge and was in a coat pocket The badge was dented and Schiro had a slight chest abrasion from the impact of the bullet.

Canadian Fined In Waupaca for Reckless Driving

WAUPACA — Giles J. Philippon, 24, a Canadian resident, who was the driver of a car which struck another car carrying four teen-agers Saturday on Waupaca's Main Street was fined $75 and costs for reckless driving when he appeared Monday in Municipal Justice Court

Philippon, employed by a tree trimming firm which is clearing right of way for a power line in the Waupaca area, gave his Waupaca address as the Niel Hotel. Philippon does not speak English and appeared in court with an interpreter.

Police said Philippon, who was traveling east on Union Street, failed to stop for a stop sign, skidded 124 feet before crashing into the side of a car driven by Van A. Johnson, 17, route 4, Waupaca, which was traveling north on S. Main Street.

Johnson and his three passengers were treated for injuries at the Riverside Hospital. One of the youths was held overnight for observation and released Sunday.

The Johnson car was demolished and $1,800 damage was reported to the Philippon car by police.

$95,000 Price Tag Put on Updated Salary Schedule

State Personnel Bureau Asks Raises Retroactive To Jan. 1 for Appleton

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

An updated pay plan for salaried municipal employes —bearing a $95,000 price tag retroactive to Jan. 1—was recommended here Monday night by the State Bureau of Personnel.

Kenneth DePrey, Madison, a representative of the bureau, presented the City of Appleton Classification and Compensation Plan at an informal meeting of the common council.

The highpoints of his report:

—Appleton should continue with a merit system pay plan which was initiated in 1961 and now brought up to date.

—Most of the inequities in the present plan were found in the salaries of professional people on the city payroll. In their case, "extreme lows" were noted.

—Again recommended the city hire a personnel director who would be the key person in making the pay plan work.

—Any change in the general economy should be considered every year when deliberating pay matters. Merit raises should be considered separately and do not necessarily have to be granted annually.

Economic Conditions

—There is nothing wrong with granting percentage or across-the-board increases when economic conditions dictate but then each step in the pay plan should be adjusted accordingly to maintain the merit system.

—The new pay plan was "tailored" for Appleton which finds itself in a very competitive position with other cities in the Fox Valley when it comes to salaries and talent.

Aldermen had mixed reactions to the proposed pay plan and the $95,000 figure needed to bring it in line was an eye-opener. Without deliberation, some council members expressed opinions that it would be well to start the salary adjusting in 1966 instead of reverting to Jan. 1, 1965.

"All cities with merit pay plans are going through the same transition as Appleton," DePrey said.

"Some of your departments have merit rating systems," he added. "The department heads are attempting to measure individual performance."

DePrey said he could not

Midwest Supply of Pits and Pocks For City Streets Nearly Depleted

BY RAY PY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Rumors that any city's supply of street pits and pocks is facing depletion were confirmed today by a spokesman for any city's Pit and Pock Department.

"It's been a banner year," Roman Knose, head of the least known department said, "and I'm afraid I'm going to have to put in for an emergency appropriation."

Knose confirmed that most of the city's supply of 4.5 million pits and pocks has already been spread upon the streets and roads and the need has not been satisfied.

"There are still some streets that are nearly smooth and pit-free," Knose revealed. He declined to name the streets, fearing that public disclosure would bring about panic and lower the residential values of the neighborhoods where the streets are located

"The Old Days"

"Pits have come a long way," Knose said, as he discussed his 45 years of public service. "Why I can remember the old days when the department was given the responsibility of maintaining the city's mud ruts. We didn't have so many streets then."

Pit and pock development has kept pace with the transportation industry, Knose revealed. With tougher shock absorbers, springier springs and bigger cars, the pits and pocks have kept pace.

We're exploring a pit now ready for market which will tear the rubber right off a wheel," Knose said.

"The're doing some really great things in space exploration, too" Knose said, showing his collection of moon probe photos outlining huge craters and pits.

"What a sweetheart of a job someone is doing up there," he said.

Safety Factor

Pits and pocks are placed on busy streets and intersections, Knose said, both as a safety factor and a public service.

"Since we've been putting the pits around you don't hear about the driver who falls asleep at the wheel any longer," Knose said.

"And all that accumulation of winter snow and road salt jammed up under the car hasn't got a ghost of a chance of hanging on through the summer. We knock it free with our pits."

Today's pits and pocks are equipped with small, unseen hinges which allow the street employe to quickly take up the pit or pock, throw it on the back of a truck and rush it to another intersection or street where the need has been determined.

"But this year we can't keep up with the demand," Knose said.

"We've been forced to substitute rough, black gravel mounds for pits and pocks at some of the intersections. The gravel bangs around all over the car and the mound gives the driver a token bump and jerk, but it will never take the place of a good pit or pock," the superintendent said.

Development Progress

Employes of the department reveal they have made some development progress of their own.

"By filling the pits with water you can reach the unsuspecting motorist who thinks he is about to drive through only a shallow puddle " one employe said.

Another revealed that some pits and pocks have been laid on city streets "from gutter to gutter "

"It's amusing watching the driver try to avoid hitting them. Sometimes they go right over the gutter and up to the sidewalk," said another employe.

Knose has revealed that his department has done such a good job this year that there are several pit and pock marked streets which this year are eligible for national recognition.

"I call them my 'blue ribbon' streets." Knose said and he will submit them for judging later this year.

"You know there isn't much financial recognition for a job like this," Knose said. "I get my real rewards when I overhear people remark that our city has the most pits and pocks of any streets in the midwest."

Wisconsin-Michigan Reveals Expansion, Relocation Plans

Appleton Land Package Switch Is Part of Deal Under Study

Braod relocation and expansion plans of the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. involving a package of land exchanges with the City of Appleton were disclosed Monday night.

At an informal meeting of the city council called by Mayor Clarence Mitchell, company officials outlined present and long-range plans for constructing a central maintenance center in the city's idustrial park

Mitchell and City Planner Walter Rasmussen informed aldermen the city and power company could mutually benefit from land exchanges as the result of projects currently under consideration

Further Study

Aldermen agreed to delve further into the matter at a committee of the whole session following Wednesday night's regular council meeting

The power company has expressed interest in city-owned land near the industrial park and the old No. 1 fire station property which abuts the firm's downtown service center.

Mitchell told aldermen it would be up to the council to decide what it wanted to do in assisting a local industry with expansion plans that tied in favorably with projects on the municipal drawing boards.

Worked Out

"There is a considerable amount of property involved here, but I feel it can be worked out for the good of the city and power company," Mitchell said Several aldermen indicated agreement.

Wisconsin Michigan presently owns 13 acres of land in the industrial park and is desirous of purchasing the site the city owns for the proposed new municipal garage. The latter site abuts the power company land, consists of 20 acres and is on the east side of Lynndale Drive south of Spencer Street.

By putting the two parcels together, the firm would have a 33-acre site on which to construct a maintenance center and consolidate several of its presently scattered operations located in "the flats".

City Interested

The city in turn would be interested in obtaining some county-owned property to the northeast as the site for the municipal garage, which Mitchell said would be constructed this year

Power company representatives said they wanted to begin construction of the maintenance center by this fall.

In addition to some land in the "flats", the city is also interested in properties the power company owns in the Prospect Avenue area. A recent preliminary report on the comprehensive plan being prepared for the city shows the need for another bridge over the Fox River to take traffic in and out of the central business district.

Rasmussen told the group there were "many mutual benefits to be derived" through land exchanges and purchases presently in the talking stage.

Fox Valley Council Voices Approval of Fair Housing Bill

Speaker Says State Deficient in Equal Opportunity Living Areas

The Fox Valley Human Rights Council Monday night overwhelmingly endorsed the Fair Housing Bill introduced in the state legislature at the request of the Governor's Commission on Human Rights.

More than 100 persons attended the council meeting in the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. building.

"Housing is about the only area where Wisconsin is glaringly deficient in providing equal opportunity for all," Saul Sorin, Milwaukee, executive secretary of the B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League, told the group.

He said housing conditions for Negroes in Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha are "very aggravated." The Negroes are "locked in a ghetto" and are "finding it almost impossible to find decent housing."

Sorin noted that since the end of WW II, only 2 per cent of new housing construction has been for Negroes. He added that 80 per cent of the Negroes live in high rent ghettos. "Both lower and middle class Negroes are unable to find decent housing," Sorin said.

"This situation is a very expensive sore on the social body" and it "will cost people in the Fox Valley area as well as in other parts of the state" Sorin emphasized.

Sorin told the group that Bill 310-S, later endorsed by the group, was the "most effective bill that can gain passage in the state legislature" at this time. The bill has the support of 60 other groups in the state.

He said the bill introduced in the Assembly by Assemblymen Lloyd Barbee and Frank Nicolay is a "good bill", but feels that "it would be impossible to get it passed in the present climate." The bill is stronger than Bill 310-S, making housing discrimination a crime and provides for criminal penalty, while the 310-S makes housing, discrimination a civil offense.

Bill 310-S states that all "persons are entitled as a right to the full and equal opportunity to purchase, sell, lease, rent, construct and finance any housing without discrimination on the ground of race, color, religion, national origin or ancestry."

Committee of Six

It establishes a subcommittee on housing composed of six members, who have the power to enforce the law. Any person who willfully violates an enforcement order of the subcommittee "shall forfeit not less than $10 nor more than $200." Each day of a violation consti-

Holiday Pay Policy Still Not Settled

Appleton Personnel Unit Faces Fireman, Policeman Problem

Members of the city's personnel committee wrestled with a holiday pay policy Monday but failed to come up with a recommendation.

Another meeting is scheduled Wednesday night before the city council meeting, according to Ald. E. V. Krueger (11th), committee chairman.

Committee members said they know what the policy regarding holiday pay for municipal employes should be but they encountered problems with the formal wording.

Future Policy

As a result, City Atty. Frederick E. Froehlich will be requested to assist in drafting a resolution which would cover future policy as recommended by the personnel committee.

Max Hensel, a citizen member, said one of the main problems in arriving at an equitable policy was the difference in work scheduling between firemen and policemen. He recommended the policemen be given 110 instead of 104 days off a year, the former to include six holidays.

Put on Par

Hensel said he discussed the matter with Police Chief Earl O. Wolff and by putting the policemen on a par with other city employes when it comes to total days off, it would require hiring two additional men.

"I don't think the department will have to do any more hiring." Mayor Clarence Mitchell said. "When we get the new municipal garage built this year we can put two police department garage mechanics back in squad cars where they belong."

Ald. Arthur Mueller (19th) insisted the city attorney or his assistant approve the legal language for the holiday pay policy to avoid any future problems.

Sidewalk Inspector Plan Hits Opposition

Mayor Mitchell Tells Personnel Committee 'No Need for Post, Job Is Alderman's'

A proposal to hire a sidewalk inspector ran into opposition from the city's personnel committee Tuesday.

Creation of the position had been recommended two weeks ago by the council's street-sanitation committee.

The inspector, working in the engineering department, would make a thorough inspection of sidewalks in the central business district and other parts of the city, recommending those to be repaired or replaced.

Doubts Need

Mayor Clarence Mitchell told the personnel committee he doubted the need for a sidewalk inspector, explaining it was the responsibility of the alderman in the ward to order repairs and replacements where needed.

Mitchell said he could forsee a problem if a sidewalk inspector made recommendations and when they came to the council for approval, some aldermen would have them referred back.

"Having a sidewalk inspector would mean nothing if there wasn't a good enforcement procedure," said Max Hensel, citizen member.

Public Works Director Robert W. Bues informed officials recently that the City of Appleton has been the target of several lawsuits arising out of alleged defective sidewalks. He said the walks and curbs in the business district were in bad shape.

"If I had to testify in court on what the city has been doing about sidewalks downtown, the answer would have to be 'nothing'," Bues has said recently.

"If I was in business downtown I would want to keep my sidewalk in good condition," commented Mrs. Dorothy Stillings (7th).

Questions Conditions

Mrs. Stillings said she also questioned the conditions of curbings and sidewalks in some residential areas.

The committee finally decided to bring the matter of hiring a sidewalk inspector before the entire city council Wednesday night after its regular meeting.

The street-sanitation committee also met Monday afternoon and recommended purchase of two-way radio communication system from Motorola Inc., for $9,600.

PSC Repeals Embargo on Truck Traffic

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — For the first time in many years, there will be no embargo on truck traffic on major highways of the state during the weekends of the summer tourist travel season.

The Public Service Commission has announced the repeal of its traditional summer truck restrictions order, after receiving no objections to an earlier announcement of its intention to abandon the embargo.

Gradual improvement of the major highways through the construction of two lane systems and others, plus a reduction of weekend truck traffic because of changes in the transportation economy, have contributed to the suspension of road use restrictions.

Water Utility Okays Hiring Legal Counsel

Commission Seeks Assistance for Its Wage Factfinding Hearing April 16

The City of Appleton Water Commission Monday authorized its personnel committee to hire special legal counsel for a factfinding hearing regarding wages for the department's unionized employes.

A hearing has been set for 10 a.m. April 16 at the department's office.

The committee was instructed to contact Robert Sundby of Madison and ask him if he would represent the department.

Union Represented

The commission took the action after it was learned that Local 73 of the Wisconsin Council of County and Municipal Employes will be represented by an attorney.

The union is seeking a 35 cent per hour increase and the commission is willing to give a 5 cent per hour increase.

The commission decided to hire special legal counsel despite the fact that Appleton has two city attorneys. Sundby had represented the city in an earlier labor dispute.

Other Actions

In other action:

The commission increased the basic charge for overtime call out work to $7.50. The customer charge had previously been $6.

Passed a resolution authorizing the payment to department employes of 10 cents per mile for department business trips in the city and 8 cents per mile for trips outside the city.

Authorized A. E. Dimick, assistant secretary, to attend the national convention of the National Water Works Association June 28 to July 2 at Portland, Ore.

Authorized the assessment of $7.40 per running foot for the installation of water mains.

Historical Society To Hear Students

MENASHA — Students from Menasha High School history classes will give the Historical Society an intimate view of the Civil War at the society's meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the library.

The class members will detail letters and documents from their studies.

A memorial service also is planned in honor of the late President Abraham Lincoln.

Soda Cap Caper Marked 'Open' in Police Report

Police are leaving the case marked "open" on the "soda cap caper" in hopes that something will pop soon.

So far the investigation has been a fizzle.

Investigation involves entry into the Odd Fellows Hall, 1620 W. Winnebago St., sometime overnight by what one policeman called "very young burglars."

Object of the caper was the horizontally inclined soda pop bottles in the vending machine. Equipped with a satchel of "burglars tools" which probably consisted of one rusty bottle opener, the young "burglars" uncapped seven bottle caps and drained them "probably with a suctioning device commonly referred to as a straw."

"Cap capers" turn up every spring, police records show, and die out as soon as the underworld population "gets filled up."

Board Requests Separate Glass, Rubbish Cans

KAUKAUNA — The board of public works has issued a warning to city residents concerning the importance of separating glass containers from other garbage and debris.

Glass is collected separately from the garbage as it causes malfunction of the incinerator used by the city. Glass must be kept in a separate container or crews will be instructed not to pick up rubbish or garbage where glass is noted, according to the board.

Appleton Report

$99,000 Net Profit For Water Depatment

The City of Appleton Water Department operated at a profit of $99,043 during 1964, according to the department's 1964 report.

The figure was $18,528 lower than the 1963 profit of $117,571. According to the report, the decrease was due to increased operating costs, principally in purification and distribution costs and smaller increases in pumping and administrative costs.

Total operating expenses for 1964 were $592,028, compared to $541,446 in 1963.

A total of 2,389,644,000 gallons of water was pumped during 1964, an increase of 54 million gallons over 1963. A new daily pumpage record was set on June 26 when more than 12,270,000 gallons of water were treated at the plant.

The department installed 36,824 feet of new water mains, the largest single project being the installation of a 12-inch feeder line to the industrial park area.

A total of 239 new meters were installed, bringing the total of meters in service to 14,348.

Stock Market Trade Slackens

Losses of Key Stocks Are Held To Fractions

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved irregularly as trading slackened early this afternoon.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were fractional.

Uncertainty about the situation in Viet Nam, Berlin and Britain was said to be one factor in the uncertain market. Another was the approach of the April 15 income tax deadline, with many investors facing the necessity of raising cash to make up for underwithheld earnings.

The trend was a little lower among autos, rails, and steels. Rubbers, aerospace issues, cigarettes gained a bit. The picture was mixed among building materials, oils and electronics.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged, with industrials, rails and utilities all unchanged.

The stock market stalemate was further illustrated by Standard & Poor's 500-stock index which at noon was unchanged at 86.53.

The Dow Jones industrial average, however, showed a trifling loss of .79 at 892.44.

A loss of nearly a point by DuPont and fractions by Chrysler and General Motors tended to dampen the industrial average.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed in light trading. U.S. government bonds advanced on news that the British government has charted an austerity program to meet its international payments problem.

Police Searching For Hooded Men

PROSPERITY, S.C. (AP) — Search was intensified today for several hooded and robed men who broke into the Prosperity jail, took a Negro prisoner from his cell and slapped and threatened him.

The City Council in a special meeting Monday night deplored the incident and said the men apparently were Ku Klux Klansmen, although there has been no Klan activity reported here.

State Building Commission May be Revised

Bill Would Make It Representative of More Areas, Larger

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Reorganization of the increasingly important state building commission to make it larger and more representative of the entire state has been asked in a bill introduced by Sen. Jerris Leonard, assistant leader of the Republican majority in the State Senate.

The commission since its creation has consisted of six members of the legislature, the governor, and an eighth member chosen by the governor.

Leonard has asked for a 12-member commission to include the governor and a citizen member, and five members of each house of the legislature.

The measure is believed to represent the wishes of the Republican majority of the State Senate, which was engaged in a brief dispute earlier this year with the Democratic majority of the State Assembly about the structure of the commission which controls millions of dollars of building funds and the quasi-public corporations which issue long-term state bonds to supplement cash building appropriations authorized by the Legislature.

Presently a Member

Leonard is now a member of the commission and is the president of its major subsidiary corporation.

His bill would provide for the selection of legislative members according to the wishes of the majority party in each house, but would expressly require minority party representation from each legislative house also.

The measure would also require the legislative officers in selecting members "to give broad geographic representation."

There have been complaints about the lack of geographic balance of the commission membership in the past.

Wolf River Level Rising

New London Gauge Shows Gains as Fishermen Watch

NEW LONDON — The Wolf River has risen 1.3 feet since the beginning of the month according to Ruben Voss, who reads the New London gauge for the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers. Figures do not include Monday's gains.

The gauge reading Thursday was up 2.9 feet from the 747.63 feet above sea level which is zero on the gauge. Saturday the reading was only 3.2, but in the following two days the river rose a foot and was still on the rise. In the 24-hour period between Sunday and Monday morning readings the river rose .8 foot.

Fishermen also are becoming encouraged, not only by the increasing water level, but also by the continued warm weather which is signaling the ice in the Wolf will soon be out.

New London fishermen are estimating the river will be ice free by Thursday or Friday.

tutes a separate and distinct violation.

When persons fail to comply with an enforcement order issued by the subcommittee, the subcommittee "shall request the attorney general or the district attorney in the county where the noncompliance has occurred to proceed in the appropriate circuit court to have such an order enforced.

The group defeated a motion to amend the bill to provide for judicial review by the courts of an appeal of the subcommittee's order in the county where the offense allegedly occurred. The bill provides for judicial review in Dane County.

Gene Franchett, who spoke on the effects the bill would have on the Fox Valley, said the area would see "an influx of Negroes, but not as rapid as seen in other areas". He attributed this to the "nature of the industries in the valley and the region itself."

Franchett pointed out that in other areas of the state, the Negroes have been unfairly identified with the stigma of substandard living conditions. He said that valley residents should prepare for the eventual influx of Negroes.

"The most important question we face is how long we are going to deny Negroes with the same human dignity as ourselves the rights we have enjoyed for many years" Franchett told the group.

Franchett, who is planning director of the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission, clarifed that he was presenting his personal convictions and not commission policy.

Rev. Ralph Sandgren, chairman, urged members to write Gov. Warren Knowles expressing their support of the bill, visit their legislators or write them letters, contact the local chambers of commerce and various church, civic and community organizations.

"If the council is to support the bill we must get information on it out to the people," he said "This bill will hedp this community prevent the formation of ghettos".

Sandgren asked members to volunteer their services for one of the group's committees. He announced that the education committee is forming a speakers bureau and by the end of the week should have a list of speakers available to discuss the bill before groups.

Kaukauna Juniors Working on Plans For April 20 Dance

KAUKAUNA — Committees have been appointed to handle aspects of the Junior Prom, "A Mid-Summer Night's Dream," to be held April 20, according to Thomas Biese, class president. Additional volunteers will be needed to assist the co-chairmen.

Serving as chairmen for various wall decorations are Joanne Kiffe, Mary May, Janet DeBruin, Cynthia Seif, Carol Schroeder, Sherrill O'Dell and Joanne Sachs. The throne committee will be headed by Patricia Van Dyke and Sandra Fleming. In charge of ceiling decorations are Michael Baisch and Paul Driessen.

Post-Prom Party

In charge of the lunch room and refreshments are Sue Bachhuber and Patricia Tatro. Working on invitations, programs and tickets are Sue O'Connor, Catherine Skibba and Margaret Schouten. Publicity will be handled by Nancy Marzahl and Bridget McCarty. Smoker lounge will be prepared by Kirk Weber and Charles Jacobson. Powder room chairmen are Janet Driessen and Kristen DeBruin.

The Kaukauna Elks again will sponsor a post-prom party at the clubrooms from midnight to 4 a.m. No students will be admitted after 2 a.m. A turkey lunch from midnight to 1 a.m. will preceed dancing. Elk members and their wives will chaperon. Tickets are available from Philip Weiner, school student council advisor.

Caveman Custom

When an enlisted soldier salutes an officer, he carries on a custom practiced by cavemen. Hand raising as a formal greeting probably originated in prehistoric times on occasions when fearful strangers want to prove to one another they carried no weapons.

CAB Asked to Deny Request of North Central

Request, Filed Earlier, Relayed to Bureau Agency for Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Outagamie County and Appleton, Wis., asked the Civil Aeronautics Board today to deny the request of North Central Airlines for permission to start serving Appleton through Winnebago County airport April 25.

The Outagamie - Appleton request noted that it has become necessary to close Appleton's Grand Chute airport, through which North Central has served the city since 1959. It also was said Outagamie County's new $2,255,000 airport five miles west of Appleton and eight miles northwest of Neenah is entirely adequate for North Central's aircraft and in every respect more suitable than the old Grand Chute field.

Outagamie County cannot afford to operate two airports, and there would be no justification fo rcontinued operation of an antiquated airport for eight or more months, for the peculiar us of North Central, pending a court decision on the area airport dispute, the document said.

Court Appeal

Outagamie County and Appleton have filed a court appeal from a CAB ruling of last Nov. 24 designating Oshkosh and Appleton as a single terminal point to receive airline service through the Winnebago County airport at Oshkosh.

The court stayed the effectiveness of the CAB order, while it considers the appeal. In a supplemental order Jan. 21 the CAB pointed out that status quo is required during such a stay—that is, that conditions of service remain unchanged.

This raised the question as to whether North Central would be permitted to change from one Appleton airport to another during the stay period.

Outagamie County and Appleton said that the closing of one airport and the opening of another cannot affect the obligation of an airline to service a city through an appropriate airport.

Borrows $2 to Get Back

UW Cyclist Returns in Rain To Answer Speeding Charge

A University of Wisconsin senior from Madison who drove his motorcycle more than 125 miles to appear today in Outagamie County Traffic Court to answer a speeding charge, had to borrow $2 to return to his classes at Madison today.

Paul Nonn, 26, originally of Sturgeon Bay, left Madison about 5:30 a.m. dressed in a surplus Air Force flying suit, helmet and goggles for the trip in the rain to court.

He pleaded no contest and was fined $25 and $5 court costs County Judge Gustave Keller reduced the fine later to $20 and costs when Nonn indicated he only had $24. He borrowed $2 from a fellow traffic violator, $1 for the fine and $1 for enough gasoline to return to Madison.

Principle Alone

Nonn said he made the trip "on principle alone" and hoped to argue his case before the court. However, he said, he was not given enough time to make his statement.

Nonn was charged with traveling 77 miles an hour on his motorcycle while he traveled U.S. 41 toward Sturgeon Bay March 12.

The student said he hoped to tell the court that he had not violated "the intent" of the law by going 12 miles over the speed limit.

Protect Others

"The law was made to protect other people from my actions," Nonn philosophized, "and being as no one was in danger except me, I felt that I was not in violation."

Nonn said he felt it was his "supreme right" to place himself in jeopardy "if no one else is in danger of being harmed."

While speeding on 41, Nonn said, he was 100 yards from any other vehicle "except for the patrol car which followed me."

Risk Lives

Nonn said mountain climbers and sky diving parachutists "are allowed to risk their lives without being arrested, and it will be a bad day for all of us when they are not allowed to."

The student motorcyclist said he uses his vehicle for campus travel and to travel back and forth to his home in Sturgeon Bay. He makes the trip in about 4½ hours.

He indicated today, however, he planned to allow "a little more time" for the trip in the future.

Brezhnev Appears Taking Over From Premier Kosygin

MOSCOW (AP) — "A Soviet Communist party and government delegation headed by Leonid I. Brehnev—"

Named much later in official accounts of a delegation now in Warsaw was Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. The announcement that the delegation would go to Poland did not even mention Kosygin — just Brehnev, the first secretary of the Soviet Communist party.

And reports from Warsaw today said Bezhnev walked ahead of Kosygin when they

Noon Count Forecasts Heavy Vote

A steady drizzle failed to discourage 2,149 Appleton residents from showing up at the polls by noon today.

The mid-day count reflected the possibility of a heavy turnout of voters in the spring election. Polls will close at 8 p.m.

Aldermanic contests in the odd-numbered wards and a heated race for a state supreme court seat are expected to get out the vote.

In the primary last month, only 484 votes had been cast in Appleton by noon. In the April 2, 1963 election, the number of votes cast by mid-day was 2,012.

Other Returns

Reports from other state cities formed a crazy-quilt-like pattern with some having heavy turnouts and others indicating noon totals were down 20 to 30 per cent compared to 1963.

At stake locally in today's election were 10 city council, 11 county board and two school board positions. There also was a park road referendum on the ballot.

City Clerk Elden Broehm said 22,454 residents were registered to vote today and predicted a 40 per cent turnout if the weather was fair to good.

By noon the most votes had been cast in the 19th, 11th, 7th and 13th Wards.

In the 19th Ward, 203 votes had been cast but in the 15th Ward where there is a five-man race for alderman, the total was only 91.

Elsewhere in the Fox Cities, Kaukauna reported 578 votes at noon; Combined Locks, 139; Little Chute, 356; and Kimberly, 240.

overemphasize the importance of having a personnel director or officer who would work with department heads, committees and the common council.

(Appleton has no personnel director but aldermen have indicated in recent weeks they may create such a position.)

DePrey cautioned against consistently granting percentage wage increases to municipal employes, explaining the pay ranges in the plan then get farther apart.

However, he also said granting dollar amounts (merit increases) tended to narrow the gap between pay classifications.

"As a result, either process should take consistent precedence over the other," DePrey said. "You can have a combination of both, one or the other, or none."

Document Reasons

DePrey said when requests for merit increases are denied, the personnel committee and personnel director should be able to document the reasons.

He emphasized that department heads should play a key role in the operation of the pay plan and said each had a responsibility to rate employes according to ability and work performed.

"Raises should not be given just for seniority's sake," DePrey declared, "and department heads should be discouraged from making a blanket recommendation that all employes get an increase."

If department heads or others in supervisory capacity shirk their responsibilities when it comes to helping make the pay plan function properly, DePrey said there were ways of solving the problem.

The pay classifications established for the various salaried positions within the city government, excluding those of elective officials, were arrived at by taking several factors into consideration, DePrey said.

Various Factors

Among them were salaries being paid for comparable positions in private industry, plus the economic condition of the area.

DePrey said every municipal department should have a rating system to help make decisions.

When it comes to a merit raise, DePrey said, it should be recommended first by the department head and the appropriate jurisdictional common council committee before going to the personnel committee and then the council for final action.

"The council should not get involved in detail or personality matters," DePrey warned.

New London Youth Safe in Chile Quake

NEW LONDON — A New London woman has received word from her grandson that he is unhurt and only felt slight tremors caused by an earthquake that shook central Chile early last week.

Mrs. George W. Demming, 511 Wyman St., New London, said her grandson, Mark, in a letter had said only slight shaking of the ground occurred at Conception University where he is attending school.

The university is located approximately 100 miles to the south of the quake zone, where an estimated 400 persons lost their lives.

Demming was granted permission by the New London Board of Education to complete graduation requirements early so he could enroll in the South American school.

Black Creek Boy Falls From Tree, Attacked by Dog

BLACK CREEK—Wayne Noack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Noack, is expected to be released from St. Elizabeth Hospital, Appleton, today where he was treated for dog bites on his leg.

The dog has been sent to the County Human Society Shelter for rabies tests.

Wayne and his brother were chased up a tree by a neighbor's dog but the branch broke and the boy fell to the ground and was attacked by the animal.

Divorce Granted Menasha Woman

OSHKOSH — Joyce E. Nottleson 23, Menasha, was granted a divorce from Royal E. Nottleson, 24, Oshkosh, Monday by Circuit Judge Arnold J. Cane on her charge of cruel and inhuman treatment. The couple was married in Neenah June 24, 1961, and separated in September of 1964.

He was ordered to pay $40 a month support for their one minor child. A property settlement also was arranged.

Funny Little Monster Has Rubber Tube for Its Body

BY CAPPY DICK

Figure 1 shows the articles needed to make it. They include a section of rubber house of the size used on home sprayers, some pieces of pipe cleaner, a couple of golf tees, a wooden clothespin, a length of clothes hanger wire and a couple of black beads.

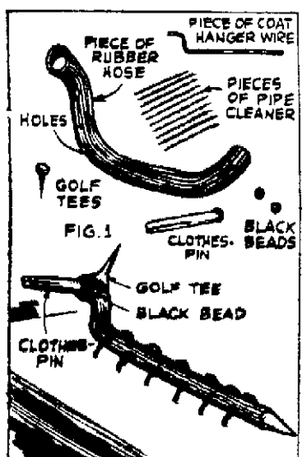

Figure 2 shows the little monster assembled. Use the piece of wire inside the tube to shape the neck. Push the top of the clothespin into the tube to form the head. with the ends protruding to serve as the lips. Poke holes in the tube to receive the pieces of pipe cleaner for legs.

Glue a golf tee to the head of the little monster and attach another for the tip of its tail.

Glue the two black beads to the head for eyes.

This completes the project. To add to the ferocious appearance of the beast you may, if you wish, paint stripes or polka dots on its rubber-tube body and the clothespin lips.

School Board Unit Reverses Aid Stand

Educators Bow to Inevitable, Hammer Out New Policy on Help From Federal Government

BOSTON (AP) — The National School Boards Association bowed to the inevitable today and began hammering out an accommodation with the massive program of federal aid to education it has fought so long.

Delegates to the NSBA's 25th annual convention have reluctantly conceded that President Johnson's proposed program, which will pump an estimated $1.5 billion into the nation's public elementary and secondary schools, will soon be the law of the land.

Up for consideration today by the Delegate Assembly, the NSBA's official policy-making body, is a policy statement which reveals a nearly complete turnabout in the association's stand.

The current policy says flatly that NSBA "opposes enactment of general federal assistance to education."

The proposed new policy doesn't go so far as to wholeheartedly approve such assistance.

It does say, however "there are nationwide concerns in education which transcend the boundaries of local school districts and the state." It also acknowledges that "federal involvement in supporting state and local educational programs is now an established fact."

The vast majority of local school board members have been opposed to federal aid to education for years.

Behind each such proposal, many board members see the specter of federal control of education.

Local Control

It also is true that many of these board members have felt — and still do — that local communities and the states can do the job with proper public support, and that they will get more for their money that way than through Washington.

But it is with fear of federal control in mind that the Delegate Assembly today will take up again a proposed resolution expressing its conviction that all federal funds for education should be administered by the state educational agencies only.

That resolution was sent back to committee Monday after a demand that it include a directive that the state agencies act in accordance wih federal law — specifically the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The Delegate Assembly did agree Monday on a resolution asking that all educational programs under the Economic Opportunity Act be established and operated only by public school agencies.

This reflected the fear of most of the delegates that YMCA's, service groups, churches, and even the federal government itself, will proliferate and duplicate educational programs in competition with the public schools.

Walter Schirra Named to Fly Next Space Try

Two Capsules to Be Joined While Orbiting Earth

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. hitched his career star to a space satellite and now his wish has come true.

Schirra, a Navy commander, 42, and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, 34, were named the primary crew Monday for this country's first attempt to link up two full-size vehicles in space.

Air Force Maj. Virgil I. Grissom and Navy Lt. Cmdr. John W. Young were chosen backup crew for the flight, the fourth manned mission in the Gemini program. It is expected before Christmas.

Wanted Job

Schirra had said if he couldn't be first to fly in the two-man program, then he wanted to do something nobody else had done — join up in the space the Gemini spacecraft and an unmanned Agena rocket.

The procedure will be necessary for a landing on the moon and also for the trip back to earth after lunar exploration.

Schirra is the oldest astronaut but he doesn't view this circumstance as hurting his chances to be one of the first men on the moon.

He expressed hope the rendezvous and docking mission would give him an inside track to be one of the first lunar explorers.

The veteran space traveler, who orbited the earth six times Oct. 3, 1962, said he thought the mission would stand him in good stead for future flights and he hoped it was "the first step to the moon."

'Shocked and Disappointed'

Gronouski 'Tightens Belt' After $69 Million Post Office Budget Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General John A. Gronouski says "we'll have to pull in o r belt" on postal ce unless some of the House-voted cut in postal funds is restored.

He said in an interview today he was "shocked and awfully disappointed" that the House had slashed $69 million from his budget.

If the Senate doesn't come up with a healthy restoration, he said, "We'll have to pull in our belt somewhere, and with mail volume rising as it is, that's got to affect service.

"Something will have to give. I'll try to do it in the most inoffensive way possible — but if you don't have the money you have to look for a way to cut costs. This has an effect on service; you just can't be too gentle about it."

Approved Budget

The House Appropriations Committee made the cut last week in approving a postal budget of $5,313,400,000. The full House endorsed the package Monday.

"I'm afraid I didn't make my point to the House committee well enough," Gronouski said. "I'm going to have to do better with the Senate next week."

Gronouski and other top postal officials expressed bafflement that the cut — most of which came under postal operations — could be made when congressional criticsm of postal efficiency and morale is running so high.

It was a $9 million budget cut, an aide said, that caused Gronouski to curtail window and parcel post service last year, loosing an avalanche of public and congressional criticism.

Pared to Bone

"My problem is that I went in there with a budget pared to the bone," the stocky former Wisconsin tax official said. "The President insists that's the way we do it. It isn't like 10 years ago, when the Post Office Department went up there with a big fat budget to give the congressmen something to cut.

"I don't mind operating on a tight budget, but I want people to know it's tight. That thing was pruned down to the bone—and they cut it."

Gronouski wanted to hire 15,000 new workers to counter an overtime problem that has employes working 60-hour and 70-hour weeks.

The committee last week cut the number to 1,300, and thereby trimmed $10 million from the budget.

Approval Is Likely

Health, Social Security Bills Before Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Rules Committee was apparently set today to approve the administration's health care and Social Security bill.

This action by the House's traffic-regulating group would fit in with leaders' plans to open debate Wednesday on the measure providing hospitalization, medical care and Social Security pension increases. The crucial votes could come Thursday.

Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., sponsor of a bill which is backed by the American Medical Association, argued at length Monda, that the ad inistration bill should be held up until at least 10 days' public hearings are held.

Have Votes

Democrats supporting President Johnson's recommendation for fast action seemed to have the votes to push the measure through.

The Rules Committee Chairman. Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., conceded as much when he said, "I realize this battle is about over."

Smith said there was a gentleman's agreement, with some gentlemen agreeing reluctantly, to clear the bill today.

Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Chio, senior Republican member of the committee, said. "I know we are going to have this bill out and pass this bill through Congress."

A vote will be sought on a Republican substitute which differs from the administration measure principally in financing all basic health services through premiums, matched by the federal Treasury. The administration plan would finance hospitalization by an increase in the pay roll tax.

Cardinal Meyer Has Relapse

CHICAGO (AP)—Albert Cardinal Meyer, 62-year-old archbishop of Chicago, was in another relapse today and drifted in and out of periods of wakefulness.

\ Mercy Hospital spokesman termed the cardinal's responsiveness minimal. He remained on tube feeding, which was started Sunday Previously the cardinal had been on a soft food diet.

Kenohsa Man Dies In Racine Crash

The 1965 Wisconsin traffic toll has reached 196 with the death of a Kenosha man in a Racine County crash. The total on this date a year ago was 243.

Michael F. Hynes, 21, who moved to Kenosha last month from Gays Mills in Crawford County, was killed Monday in a two-car crash on Highway 32 about two miles south of Racine. Two occupants of the second are in fair condition.

Police Seek Killer's Trail In Michigan

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Jolted by southwest Michigan's first multiple sex slaying in many years, police sought the killer's trail today in a stack of tips and leads.

Veteran officers found a lack of age pattern in the death of four female victims. Three had been sexually mutilated.

Equally varied was the range of tips to be chased down. Many were taken by telephone, some were brought in person by aroused citizens.

Found Sunday in the pine grove fringe of a fruit o: hard some 10 miles east of here were the bodies of Diane Carter, 7, Mrs. Olin D 60 and Mrs. Robert Jones, 37.

They we eeded in death by 19-year-old Delores Young whose nude body was discovered here Feb. 16 in a home destroyed earlier by fire.

Accused Spies Paid $250-350 Monthly

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two former U.S. Army buddies, in jail on opposite sides of the continent, face charges of involvement in an 11-year spy plot to sell defense secrets to the Soviet Union for $250 to $350 a month.

Sgt. Robert Lee Johnson, an Army courier, was arrested Monday while making his rounds in the Pentagon. James A. Mintkenbaugh, a silver-haired 46-year-old salesman, was arrested by FBI agents about the same time in Castro Valley, Calif., near his San Martin home.

Johnson Mintkenbaugh

San Francisco's U.S. attorney, Cecil Poole, said a federal grand jury will consider the case today in Richmond, Va.

Mintkenbaugh was held in Alameda County jail.

Awaits Hearing

Johnson, 43, was in an Alexandria, Va., jail awaiting a preliminary hearing April 15.

Neither man was able to make $20,000 bail bonds.

They are charged with espionage. The maximum penalty is death.

"It's news to me," Mintkenbaugh said when arraigned in Oakland, Calif. Neighbors described the quiet-mannered real estate salesman as "about the nicest guy you'd want to know."

The six and one-half page complaint said Johnson was working in the Army's intelligence section in February 1953 and contacted Soviet agents in Karlhorst, East Berlin.

Recruited Aide

Before his transfer from Berlin in April 1954 Johnson allegedly recruited Mintkenbaugh.

The FBI said Johnson and Mintkenbaugh conspired to pass secrets to Vitaly Ourjoumov, a former attache at the Soviet Embassy in Paris. Outjoumov reportedly is now in the Soviet Union.

Johnson would photograph documents, the complaint said, and Mintkenbaugh would deliver them to agents in East or West Berlin. The complaint listed contacts named Paula, Viktor, Yuri and Nervous Nick.

Paula, a man, allegedly taught Mintkenbaugh the art of making microdots — a process of reducing photographically whole pages of type, sketches or diagrams to the size of a dot. The dots would then be included as a period in a letter.

Light Tremor Shakes Greece, Causes Panic

Comes in Wake Of Nation's Worst Quake in 12 Years

MEGALOPOLIS, Greece (AP) — A new tremor shook the central Peloponnesus today in the wake of Greece's worst earthquake in 12 years.

The tremor was light but it caused panic among the survivors of Monday's quake which destroyed half a dozen villages.

The tremor shook down the ceiling and one wall of a damaged church 10 minutes before services for 10 victims of the earlier quake.

Police said 17 bodies have been found. most of them trapped under debris of houses that collapsed as the villagers slept. Although officials said there were at least 20 dead, they said today the toll would probably not exceed 17 as they had no reports of others missing.

200 Injured

Two hundred persons were injured, 50 of them seriously.

Health Minister Andrew Kokkevis, after touring the quake area said 30,000 persons were homeless.

Thousands of dazed survivors slept in tents put up by the Red Cross, huddled around fires during the night chill, or stayed in the open. Houses that were still standing were feared perilously weakened.

The American organization CARE sent 1,500 food packages. U.S. Air Force trucks from Athini airbase near Athens brought them.

Zorro Fined After Spat With Mele

Fiery Shortstop $300 Poorer; Mets Hand Twins 8-1 Setback

BY HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sam Mele is glancing over his shoulder, Zorro Versalles is peeking in his wallet and Billy Martin is just trying to look innocent. It all adds up to baseball's latest spring training squabble.

Versalles is $300 poorer today after taking on Manager Mele in a Minnesota dugout dispute while the Twins were being thrashed by the New York Mets 8-1 Monday. Mele had yanked his temperamental shortstop and accused him of not going all out on a bouncer by Jim Hickman that brought in two Met runs.

When Zoilo got to the bench, Mele told him to sit down. That's where Martin, a Twin coach who is an old hand at feudin' and fussin', got into the act.

Refers to Rumors

"I sit on the bench for Martin, not for you," Versalles barked. The shortstop was obviously referring to rumors that Martin might replace Mele unless the Twins can improve on last year's disappointing sixth place finish.

"That will cost you $100," said Mele.

Zoilo wasn't finished through. "Make it $200," the shortstop snapped.

"All right, it's $200," said Mele.

"Why not $300?" asked Versalles.

"That's what it is," Mele replied. "Now get out behind the outfield and do some running."

Martin, in his first year as a coach with the Twins, was angry over getting involved in the spot, especially because of the rumors.

Fit of Temper

"Versalles shouldn't have said it. He did it in a fit of temper. I guess it was his way of getting back at Sam. He must have used my name because I'm working with him and he regards me as a friend. "I'm loyal to anybody I work for."

"They're trying to make a (Leo) Durocher of me now. Just like they tried to make an (Eddie) Stanky of me as a player," Martin added.

Versalles said he was angry because Mele warmed up his replacement before the inning was over. "He treated me like a busher. I want respect," the shortstop said.

While the Twins were arguing, the Mets were scoring runs. Tight pitching by Tom Parsons and Larry Bearnarth gave New York its victory.

Elsewhere, John Buzhardt and Bob Locker combined to pitch as one-hitter as the Chicago White Sox blanked Philadelphia 2-0.

Special Teal Season Opposed

Okay '65 Deer Proposals

Sports
POST-CRESCENT
Tuesday, April 6, 1965 Page B6

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

Near unanimous approval for the recommended 1965 state deer hunting season was given by sportsmen who attended the county conservation congress meeting Monday night at the courthouse.

The federal government's proposal for a special teal season on the Mississippi and Central Flyways did not meet a very enthusiastic reception, however, as five of every six persons present objected to Wisconsin participating in the program.

Approximately 90 persons attended the annual session which is designed to give sportsmen in each county a chance to voice their opinions on proposed regulations before they are adopted.

Opening Date

The proposed deer-gun season for 1965, with an opening date of Nov. 20 and running through Nov. 28, was passed by a vote margin of 81 to 1. Included in the proposal were provisions for special any-deer hunting on certain days for the Mississippi River zone, the southern agricultural zone, the eastern agricultural zone (including Door, Kewaunee, Manitowoc, Calumet, Sheboygan, Ozukee, Washington, Dodge and Fond du Lac counties) and the Camp McCoy Military Reservation.

It was anticipated that there would be some heavy discussion on the proposed 3-day any-deer season in the eastern zone, such as was held the season before last, but the measure was not questioned.

The group also voted against expanding the early bear hunting season to additional management units in the northern part of the state. The vote total was 19 in favor and 30 opposed with almost half of the group abstaining.

Along with the deer question, the majority voted to allow a slightly higher quota for party permit deer in special management areas where it is deemed necessary. The group also approved, by 84-0 vote, to have the hunting hours more standardized, rather than changing from day to day as has been the case in the past.

Trout Size Limit

A proposal to reduce the size limit on "fly-fishing only" areas for trout from 12 to 10 inches was given the okay by a 69-3 vote. Conservation personnel explained that very few fish in the 12-inch class were being taken in these areas and the smaller ones being hooked frequently died after they were released.

A special proposal for white bass which would permit net removal during periods of high population brought up the most controversy, but eventually was passed by a 53-22 margin.

Fishery headquarters chief Richard Harris, Oshkosh, explained that when there is such a high population of white bass the walleye and sauger population suffers because of the competition for food. He also predicted that there is a strong possibility of another die-off of white bass this summer, as occurred in 1964. Harris said there is still a tremendous population of white bass in Lake Winnebago and tributary waters.

Black Bass Season

Under advisory questions regarding fishing regulations the group voted 51-10 in favor of opening the black bass season on the first Saturday in June

Sadowski and Osinski Combine in 12-Inning, 1-0 Win Over Dodgers

Gene Oliver's Single Scores Gary Kolb For Tilt's Only Run

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves boast one of the hardest hitting teams in baseball, but their pitchers are overshadowing the vaunted sluggers.

Right-handers Bob Sadowski and Dan Osinski teamed for a brilliant seven-hitter as the Braves edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 1-0 on Gene Oliver's bases-loaded single in the 12th inning Monday before an exhibition game crowd of 1,206.

Sadowski stopped the Dodgers on four hits in eight innings in his finest effort in the Grapefruit League. Osinski, a reliever obtained from the Los Angeles Angeles, surrendered three hits and struck out five in the next four innings in earning the triumph.

Since walloping Kansas City 12-5 a week ago, the Braves have managed only eight runs in five games. They dropped 4-2, 3-2 and 1-0 decisions before Tony Cloninger snapped the losing streak with a route-going 3-1 triumph Sunday.

Lowered ERA

Sadowski, striving to come back after a disappointing 9-10 record last season, lowered his earned run average for the spring to 2.16. He has allowed six runs and 19 hits in 25 innings. He surrendered only two walks to the Dodgers after giving up 11 in previous outings.

Osinski lowered his exhibition earned run average to a sparkling 0.95. He has posted two victories and been credited with four saves in 10 appearances in Milwaukee's 12-11 Grapefruit League record.

The Braves were handcuffed by Cincinnati and Washington castoff Claude Osteen for nine innings, getting only one runner as far as second base. Right hander Jim Brewer, formerly of the Chicago Cubs, came on in the 10th and struck out five of the first Milwaukee batters he faced before running into trouble in the 12th.

Launched With Singles

Gary Kolb and Ty Cline launched the decisive inning with singles. Kolb advanced to third and Cline to second when shortstop Maury Wills made a wild throw after fielding the latter's grounder. Denny Menke received an intentional pass and Oliver knocked Brewer's first pitch down the left field line for the game's only run.

The Braves wind up their home exhibition season in a meeting with the Washington Senators tonight. Milwaukee will break camp Wednesday morning and begin the long trip northward. Two exhibitions with the New York Yankees and three with the Detroit Tigers are scheduled before the Braves' National League opener at Cincinnati next Monday.

Sandy Koufax To Resume His Training

Hurling Ace Back In Camp Sooner Than Anticipated

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Pitching star Sandy Koufax awaited a joyful welcome back late today to Los Angeles Dodger bosoms, but with Koufax' return also comes speculation and apprehension.

Does his return to training camp mean the arthritic condition of his million-dollar left elbow has suddenly begun clearing up, or was it not as serious as it looked at first?

Only time will tell, team spokesman say. "We'll just have to play it by ear all the way," said Dodger Vice President Red Patterson Monday on hearing of southpaw Koufax' medical release.

The team's orthopedic specialist, Dr. Robert Kerlan, said the swelling of Koufax' left elbow had sufficiently reduced for him to resume training, several days before anyone had hoped he could.

No Elaboration

Kerlan offered no elaboration of the announcement.

General Manager E. J. (Buzzy) Bavasi said Koufax would continue medication treatments to his elbow under Kerlan's directions, and added:

"Sandy will be permitted to set his own pace on conditioning himself and will not be asked to pitch until he says he's ready to do so, and only as often as he says he's ready."

Koufax' elbow became stiff and swollen Thursday at Dodgertown and he returned to Los Angeles the next day for treatment. Kerlan diagnosed the trouble as "a traumatic arthritis condition of the left elbow which tends to flare up under repeated stress."

That diagnosis is what creates the speculation attendant upon Koufax' return. A few days of repeated stress may answer the question whether the condition is chronic — thus possibly spelling an end to Koufax' brilliant hurling career — or whether the present treatment will be sufficient to control the condition.

John Logan Accepts Sports Commentating Position With WOKY

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Johnny Logan, who retired last year after 19 years as a professional baseball player, accepted a position Monday as a sports commentator and public relations-sales representative for a Milwaukee radio station.

Logan, a former star with the Milwaukee Braves, said he will have a daily sports program (WOKY) after the start of the baseball season. He wound up his major league career with Pittsburgh in 1963 and then played last season with the Nankai Hawks in Japan.

Tom Steinmetz Named 'Most Valuable' Vike Cager for '64-5 Season

Outlook Bright for All Three Winter Athletic Teams

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Bright futures were forecast for Viking basketball, swimming and wrestling teams—on the basis of strong nuclei of varsity underclassmen and outstanding freshman units.

Tom Steinmetz, Earl Hoover and Mike O'Fallon won the varsity basketball "Oscars" during the Colman hall ceremonies. Steinmetz was chosen "most valuable player." Hoover was named honorary captain for 1964-65. O'Fallon won a trophy for displaying the greatest free-throwing accuracy (73 per cent).

Fred Nordeen was elected captain of the 1965-6 Viking swimming team.

No wrestling captain was named, but Coach Ron Roberts commended Jesse Oden and Bert Hansen, the only seniors for the examples they showed during the 1965-6 season.

Finest Teams

"This is the finest varsity and freshman teams I've had here so far," said Roberts. "We're starting to move forward." In meets, the Vikes have improved from no points, to nine points to 20 points.

Roberts predicted that the Vikes should be 1-2-3 in the conference next season.

Clyde Rusk, varsity basketball coach, declared, "We made progress. You can never be satisfied with a losing season, but there are signs of progress.

Among the signs listed by Rusk were: (1) The Vikes won seven of nine home conference games; (2) The Vikes beat Ripon for the first time since 1960; (3) the Bikes beat Coe for the first time in 12 years; (4) The Vikes beat two of the three co-champions; (5) The Vikes had three players among the top 16 in scoring.

"We'll work and plan until we have winning basketball at Lawrence," Rusk stressed. "The future looks bright."

Varsity returnees include lettermen Steinmetz, O'Fallon, Dick Schultz, Rick Kroos and Jim Swanson.

Rusk lauded the contributions made by seniors Hoover, Gordon Bond and Bill Prange. He said Hoover "contributed as much as anyone to our drive for respectability in basketball." In scoring, Hoover improved from 201 points to 290 to 360 in his three varsity seasons — and in rebounding he improved from 158 to 212 to 224.

Steinmetz, whom he listed as leading scorer and second best rebounder, "should be an inspiration for the freshmen with his hustle," said Rusk.

Gene Davis, swimming coach, praised his team's efforts and paid special tribute to Dan Foster, the only one ever to win the Midwest Conference diving title three straight years. He said that seven underclass varsity swimmers are eligible to return and with topnotch freshmen, "we should have an outstanding team again."

The freshmen, led by Pete House, smashed practically every Vike record in the book, Davis reported.

Gil Frank, freshman basketball coach, lauded the Vike frosh and declared it was a "great experience" to coach them. He reported that Dennis Kirchhoff was elected honorary captain.

West Scores 52 Points in Laker Victory

Los Angeles Takes 2-0 Lead in NBA Division Playoff

LOS ANGELES (AP)—On the strength of a brilliant effort by Jerry West, Los Angeles has taken a 2-0 lead over Baltimore in their best-of-7 series to decide the National Basketball Association's Western Division playoff championship.

West clicked for 52 points as the Lakers downed the Bullets 118-115 Monday night. In the first game on Saturday, the back-court whiz scored 49.

The two teams move to Baltimore Wednesday night for the third game.

Lead Shifts

In the last minutes of the game Monday night, the lead shifted 10 times. West, who collected 32 points in the second half, clinched the victory in the final 23 seconds.

With Los Angeles trailing 115-114, he sank a layup, then nailed down the verdict by converting two free throws.

High man for the Bullets was Don Ohl with 30.

Both teams were minus key players. Baltimore's Bailey Howell sat out the game after injuring his back in pre-game warmups. Los Angeles' Elgin Baylor remained in a hospital where he underwent knee surgery Sunday.

Bob Saverine Assigned to Rochester '9'

MIAMI (AP) — Left-handed pitcher Frank Bertaina and utility player Bob Saverine were assigned today to Baltimore's Triple-A Rochester farm club in the International League. This reduced the Orioles' American League roster to the 28-man opening day limit.

Bertaina, who will be 21 next week, won 11 and lost four last season at Elmira, N.Y., in the Eastern League. With the Orioles, Bertaina's lone decision last year was a 1-0 one-hit shutout of Kansas City.

Saverine, 23, who received a $72,000 bonus, has been used primarily as a pinchrunner and and defensive replacement by Baltimore for the past three seasons. He hit .147 in 34 at bats last year.

UW's Ivy Williamson Undergoes Operation

MONROE (AP)—University of Wisconsin athletic director Ivy Williamson was reported in satisfactory condition at St. Claire Hospital today after undergoing surgery for a back ailment Monday.

A spokesman said that Williamson is expected to be discharged from the hospital by the end of the week.

Nicklaus Is Sarazen's Pick to Win Masters

Jack's 5 Practice Rounds Show Scores Of 70 or Under

BY MURRAY ROSE

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Gene Sarazen is high on Jack Nicklaus to win the 30th Masters Golf Tournament starting Thursday but he feels the husky blond bomber, four-time winner Arnie Palmer and the other elite of the game have an unfair advantage over the rest of the field.

"They get the best caddies," said the 63-year-old Squire of Germantown, N.Y., who won the second Masters in 1934 with his famous double eagle. "The caddies can make a big difference.

"Only five per cent of the caddies today know the difference between a driver and a four iron," said the veteran, who came out of the bag-carrying ranks to fame and fortune. "The good ones go to the top players like Nicklaus, Palmer, Tony Lema and Sam Snead.

"The way to equalize it would be to have the caddies just as a service. They would not be permitted to give advice."

Should be Mechanized

Sarazen also suggested that the game should be mechanized to help speed up play.

"Golf carts should be permitted in the tournaments," said Sarazen. "You've got to keep up with the times and keep the game from lagging. You can still used caddies for the other functions."

As for Nicklaus, winner of the Masters in 1963 and sharer of second money behind Palmer last year, Sarazen said, "He has everything to win on this long course. He drives farther, hits his irons better and putts better han anyone else."

Sarazen saw the Columbus, Ohio, clouter fire some of his superb rounds over the par 36-36—72, 6,980-yard water-soaked course last week Nicklaus had rounds of 68, 69, 68, 68, 70.

"On the 15th (a par 5 520-yarder) during the rain he hit the green with a drive and a five iron. If he's anything close to that form, no one will beat him."

Nicklaus is a 4-1 choice to top a field of 93 invited stars including 56 leading pros and 16 top amateurs from the United States and 21 foreign luminaries in the four-day, 72-hole prestige tournament.

Ara Parseghian Begins Search For New QB

ND Defensive Unit Remains Intact For 1965 Season

BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — The big problem for Ara Parseghian, Notre Dame football coach, is what to do for an encore.

Parseghian, after leaving Northwestern for the Notre Dame job, came up with a sparkling season. The Irish, having all but lost their national reputation in recent years, caught fire under their new coach and won nine straight.

With every possible honor in sight, the Irish lost the finale to Southern California 20-17 and finished as the No. 3 team in the nation behind Alabama and Arkansas, both of whom were undefeated.

'Second Era'

Notre Dame began preparations for its 77th football campaign Monday with the opening of spring practice. Some 80 candidates reported for the spring practice sessions in what is being billed "The Second Era of Ara."

Ara's first era got off to a tremendous start last year but this year the Irish will have to patch up their offensive unit.

Gone is the tremendous passing combination of John Huarte to Jack Snow. With it went the interior line on offense.

Notre Dame's defensive unit, one of the best in the nation last year, remains intact and there should be no serious problems in that area.

Parseghian has a host of rookie quarterbacks. "I'm looking for a guy who is daring and is a strong accurate passer with good running speed," he said.

Top candidates are Dan Koenings, Tom Schoen, John Pergine and Buster O'Brien.

Senior aspirants are Sandy Bonvechio and Bill Zloch, both of whom saw limited duty behind Huarte last season.

"Koenings is a good passer and very accurate," says Parseghian. "Schoen can run, pass and scramble well. Pergine is strong and quick.

"But spring practices are only beginning and their purpose is to see what we have and what abilities to exploit."

Parseghian admits he currently has no candidate to replace Snow, the great split end who along with Huarte rewrote most of Notre Dame's passing records.

If the Irish cannot come up with a passing attack, their opponents will have a tough time stopping halfbacks Nick Eddy and Bill Wolski.

Drop Charges Of Burglary Against Zeno

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Next time UCLA star quarterback Larry Zeno calls on a girl, police suggest that he use the front door.

The 22-year-old athlete was cleared of burglary charges Monday, after the district attorney's office, the city attorney's office and the man who first repored him said they would not seek a complaint.

Zeno told police who arrested him early last Saturday that he was looking for the home of a girl friend—from the back because of the lateness of the hour—and got into the yard of television producer Herbert Solow, who told police he had spted a prowler.

The girl, Kim Higgins, 18-year-old UCLA freshman who lives next door to Solow, later confirmed that she had dated Zeno for four months.

Front Office Realigned by Boston Bruins

Schmidt to Stay As Head Coach Of Hockey Club

BOSTON (AP) — "If you're going to be strong on the ice, you've got to be strong in the office," says Boston Bruins' President Weston Adams.

With that statement, the head man of the team which has finished last in five straight National Hockey League races announced Monday:

Milt Schmidt will continue as coach and assistant general manager.

Terming the realignment "a team of four," Adams said Emms and Schmidt will handle "the practical side" while he and Patrick cope with the "executive."

Boston has failed to make the playoffs six straight seasons.

Emms, 60, is owner-manager of Boston's No. 1 junior farm club, the Niagara Falls, Ont., Flyers.

"Emms has been referred to as a 'hard man,'" said Adams. "I prefer to think of him as a 'firm' man."

Neither Present

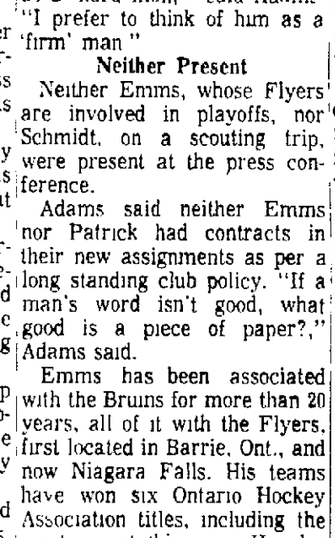

Neither Emms, whose Flyers are involved in playoffs, nor Schmidt, on a scouting trip, were present at the press conference.

Adams said neither Emms nor Patrick had contracts in their new assignments as per a long standing club policy. "If a man's word isn't good, what good is a piece of paper?," Adams said.

Emms has been associated with the Bruins for more than 20 years, all of it with the Flyers, first located in Barrie, Ont., and now Niagara Falls. His teams have won six Ontario Hockey Association titles, including the most recent this year. He also won four Eastern Canada championships and two Memorial Cups.

Despite injuries, which sidelined six top players for the balance of the season, Boston had its winningest year since 1959-60 when it posted 21 victories this past campaign.

"I consider Milt Schmidt has done a fine job as coach under unbelievably difficult conditions," said Adams. "He has more than proved his right to the job."

rather than on a split basis for the north and south area.

Approval also was given to changing the bag restrictions on trout to permit the taking of 10 trout, regardless of whether they are brook, brown or rainbow. At the present time 10 trout are allowed in the daily bag, but only five may be rainbow. The measure was approved by a 58-6 margin.

Henry Leibzeit was reelected as a county representative to the conservation congress from the Appleton area and Phil Sachs was reelected from the Seymour area.

Local Proposals

Three local proposals were offered, approved and will be taken to district meetings by county representatives. The first, by Don Fulcer, Appleton, requests that state servicemen home on leave be able to obtain a permit to fish and not have to buy a license.

Gene Welhouse, Kaukauna, proposed a ruffed grouse season opening Oct. 2 and closing Nov. 16. He said extending the grouse season to a late date makes for a slaughter of the birds as they bunch up in cedar swamps.

The other local proposal was to open the refuge on County Trunk M out of Shiocton during the deer season. The refuge is closed for waterfowl. A similar proposal last year was not approved by the game department.

Schoendienst's Lone Goal as New Card Pilot World Championship

1965 Club Appears Stronger Than Titlist In Spring Exhibitions

BY JACK HAND

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla (AP) — Red Schoendienst summed up his problems as freshman manager of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals in seven words:

"I have only one worry — win again."

Red grinned when he said it, but he knew it was no joking matter. The only way Schoendienst could top Johnny Keane's heroics of last year would be to win the pennant again and then sweep the World Series in four straight, instead of seven games.

Keane left Card owner Gussie Busch without a brewmaster when he quit the day after the Series and became manager of the New York Yankees. Busch quickly turned to Schoendienst to take over as manager.

Won't Lay Down

"We'll play as hard as we know how," said Schoendienst "I'll manage the way I played. The boys won't lay down.

"You have to have the good horses and you have to get it out of them. Not by beating or harping at them, but by good honest common sense. It is a privilege to be up here playing ball in the majors. There aren't many openings.

Schoendienst and the entire Cardinal organization insist the 1965 club is better than the squad that went into the 1964 season. The trade that brought Lou Brock from the Chicago Cubs in mid-season, the maturing of Tim McCarver and Mike Shannon, the added pitching of Bob Purkey and Tracy Stallard and the bench insurance of first baseman-outfielder Tito Francona are cited as reasons for the improvement.

A crippling injury to a Bill White, Ken Boyer, Dick Groat or McCarver could be deadly. But you can say the same about any of the six clubs that figure to be in the race

"Going to be Tough"

"It is going to be tough again in this league," said Schoendienst. "Five or six will be in it up to the last two weeks. Then three or four will fight it out to the wire. I think the Mets will win more and also Houston and Chicago. Los Angeles has to be better. I know Milwaukee is a good club. Cincinnati is going to be tough and the Giants.

"The way I look at it the team that gets a break playing another when its better players are injured will win it."

McCarver's broken finger threw the camp into a panic but Bob Uecker has filled in capably. The Cards hope to have McCarver back for the opener. At present he can hit but can't throw.

Francona, ex-Cleveland Indian, provides protection at first and in the outfield. Dal Maxvill, who filled in for the injured Javier in the Series; Jerry Buchek and possibly Phil Gagliano back up the regulars. Bob Skinner, Carl Warwick and Francona are the outfield reserves.

Acquired From Reds

Bob Gibson, Curt Simmons and Purkey, acquired from Cincinnati in the trade for Roger Craig and Charlie James, will do most of the starting early in the year. Ray Sadecki, slow to round into form after winning 20 last year, eventually will take his turn. Stallard, the ex-Met, will be used to start and relieve.

Barney Schultz and Ron Taylor are the bullpen bulwarks. Ray Washburn, a sore arm case in recent years, has looked both good and bad.

Three first year men will go home with the club — Steve Carlton, Dave Dowling and Nelson Briles The Cards must keep all three or risk losing them on waivers Carlton, a 20-year-old lefty has made a deep impression on Schoendienst.

If the Cards avoid injuries, they may very well win it all again. When you get off the deck and just slide in while the early leader goes into a 10-game tailspin, complacency should be no problem. The Cards still are hungry ball players.

Umpires Aren't Just Lonely, Friendless Men

Tom Gorman Looks At Every Game as New Adventure

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla (AP) — Baseball umpires are usually pictured as the most unappreciated, unrewarded and unknown men in the world of sports.

Ninety per cent of the fans, 95 per cent of the writers and 100 per cent of the players are convinced thew can see more and see better than the umpires.

And any umpire will tell you he works twice as hard for only half the pay as the average player.

But they invariably laugh when they hear that oft-repeated description of umpires as lonely, bitter, frustrated men.

Given Testimonial

And they gave Jocko a testimonial when he retired last winter.

"Bitter?" says John Stevens, starting his 19th season as an American League umpire. "There isn't a happier or more grateful guy in the game. I'm doing what I enjoy doing the most."

Stevens obviously enjoys the officiating life. In the winter he exchanges ball-and-strike indicator for whistle and officiates college basketball

"Frustrated?" said Tom Gorman, probably the most tolerant of National League umpires and a gifted after-dinner humorist. "I look upon every game as a new adventure."

"The general impression of an umpire," said Frank Umont, one of the most respected umpires in the big leagues, "is that he's a sour, hard-to-get-along-with old man

Enjoy Good Laugh

"Nothing is further from the truth Most of us are easy-going, enjoy a good laugh, and love to chew the fat, even with ball players."

Umont, a father of two who celebrated his 25th wedding anniversary last September, was a member of a group that conducted baseball clinics in Latin America this past winter The State Department-sponsored tour hit a snag in the Dominican Republic

"We were at the ball park at night, just starting our clinic," Umont recalled, "when they bombarded us with rocks and bricks After I got hit by a rock, we closed shop for the night and left the country the next day."

Knowles Lauds Effort Made By Teams, Inc.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Gov Warren P. Knowles was pleased Monday when he noticed at a luncheon that a ticket order blank for the Milwaukee Braves' home baseball opener April 15 was at each plate

Knowles said he was happy to see the effort by Teams, Inc., a business and civic group, to promote attendance in the Braves' final season in Milwaukee before moving to Atlanta.

"I hadn't been looking forward to throwing out the first ball with the stands empty," the governor said

Teams, which has guaranteed the Braves $35,000 for monetary rights to the opener with the Chicago Cubs, has sold some 8,000 tickets in trying to overcome bitterness among Milwaukee fans.

Says Mexico City Presents Olympic Training Problems

WAUPACA — Selecting Mexico City over Detroit as the site of the 1968 Olympics was a mistake, University of Wisconsin track coach Charles "Rut" Walter told the crowd attending an athletic banquet there Monday.

His reason was that Mexico City has an altitude of 7,100 feet and runners in the 800-meter races and up will be falling like flies. Various training methods to condition the runners for the '68 games are now being studied, he said. In the near future, a group of athletes will be taken to the Rockies where they will work out at altitudes of 10,000 to 14,000 feet. It is now known that runners who have trained at high altitudes have faster times when competing at lower elevations he said, and in the coming tests coaches will be trying to determine what are the best altitudes to train at.

How long can an athlete be away from high altitudes before they lose their speed will be answered in the tests next summer, he said. The Russians and Japanese are two of the countries already known to be testing high altitude running and if the United States is going to repeat their 1964 Olympic record in 1968 they will have to have a thorough understanding of the conditions and be ready for them, Walter said.

Walter was one of the coaches that helped train and traveled to Tokyo with the U. S track team last year. Since he came to the University of Wisconsin in 1960 he has brought three Big Ten track titles and one second to the state. Prior to taking over his coaching duties at Wisconsin he was a member of the Northwestern University coaching staff.

Newman Will Hurl Opener For Angels

Decision Enables Rigney to Save Chance for Yanks

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Los Angeles Angel Manager Bill Rigney has named right-hander Fred Newman to pitch his club's opener against Cleveland next Monday night at Los Angeles.

The decision Sunday will enable Cy Young Award-winner Dean Chance to face the New York Yankees two nights later Chance had a 4-0 record against the Yankees last season, while allowing them only a single run in 50 innings. Newman, meanwhile, was 4-1 against Cleveland.

Newman was the loser here Sunday when Los Angeles was blanked by the San Francisco Giants 6-0.

However, Newman yielded but two hits during seven innings, along with four runs, three of which were unearned. Jack Sanford, who worked seven for the Giants, was the winner.

Chance followed Newman to the mound, but pitched to only four batters. Willie Mays' line drive then struck him in the back of his right leg, causing his removal from play.

Chance's injury, however, is not believed to be serious. He should be sidelined for only a day or two.

FBI Arrests Casale, Polito

Figures in Seattle Cage Fix Charged For Phony Checks

CHICAGO (AP) — FBI agents have arrested, for the second time, Chicago night club member Leo Enrico Casale.

The FBI has accused the 24-year-old Casale of being involved with a point-shaving scandal that resulted in the expulsion of three Seattle University basketball players

Agents arrested Casale Feb 17 on a Seattle warrant charging him with attempting to bribe Seattle University players to shave points in their Jan. 22 game. That day Seattle beat the University of Idaho 89-72.

And in the second arrest Monday, they accused Casale and Joseph Frank Polito, 33, of writing a phony check against an Everett, Mass., bank The FBI said Polito used the $298 93 check to buy a round trip plane ticket to Pullman, Wash., for "Karl T. Zuger."

Casale registered in a Moscow, Idaho, hotel during the trip as "Karl T. Zuger," agents said

Today, Casale was free on a $25,000 recognizance bond in the Seattle University scandal which resulted in the expulsion of team captain Charles Williams and reserve guard Peller Phillips Jr. Casale and Polito were each free on additional $5,000 cash bonds on charges of causing a fraudulent check to cross state lines.

Bribery charges against teammates Williams and Phillips have been dropped and they have been subpoenaed to testify before a federal grand jury which convenes Wednesday. Phillips and Casale once played together on the Coalinga, Calif. junior college basketball team

Minding Your Business

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.

BIG BUSINESS CHANGES DUE AS BABY CROP TAKES OVER

DEAR CY:

What is this country coming to? After a movie last night, we saw mere kids, all dressed up, zooming around in expensive, high-powered cars. My husband and I are both retired and don't look forward to taking any more of the wild, high-living, yakkity-yak from these young bloods. —MRS VINDER

DEAR MRS. VINDER:

The famous post-war baby crop is growing up fast! Boys, wearing 48 longs, and girls, sporting "tall size" dresses, are about to spend their own dollars in profusion. If their minds in any way approximate physical stature, prosperity and national progress are just around the suit and dress racks. There will be almost 4 million youngsters turning 18 in 1965. The 18 to 24 group will grow by more than 6 million in the 1964 to 1970 time span, accounting for about 33 percent of the population bulge. Our census bureau feels 18 to 24 is the age bracket of marriage, introduction to work and business. Retailers know it as the birth of spending units with dynamic dollar power. If space technology is our gauge for fast-changing America, we're living in outer space. Babies, harvested after World War II, are about to tow this country along at a breath-taking pace which defies any practical imagination. Clamp on a hair net, get a stranglehold on your rocker, and enjoy the breeze. —CY

DEAR CY:

I am a widow and want someone to live with and care for my money. At 50 I have already been married four times. My four husbands died and left me with all their inheritances. I would like to meet you face-to-face and promise not to worry you. —MRS. Z.

DEAR MRS. Z.:

Let's hope you live to be 100, in which case you have about four husbands to go. I am not worried about myself, but what the husbands after me would do with all our money See a banker, Mrs. Z. Those fellows have splendid financial insight and control over their emotions. —CY

Japan Agrees to Russian Proposal

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese government agreed today to a Soviet proposal that it work for a peaceful solution of the war in Viet Nam. But the Japanese suggested the Russians first lay the groundwork by using their influence among Communist nations.

Anti-Poverty Acts Used To Teach Kindergarten

BY SYLVIA PORTER

This fall 4.5 million five- and six-year-olds will enter kindergarten or elementary school for the first time.

Of these nearly one million already will be a full year behind in their education. This is the single grim fact behind Project "Head Start" — the dramatic new educational program now being launched under the anti-poverty act. As many as 300,000 disadvantaged children may be enrolled in an eight-week course this summer to help lift them up to the school level of their classmates.

Why do we need a pre-school program? How will it work?

"There is considerable evidence that the early years of childhood are the most critical point in the poverty cycle," states a report of a panel of top-level experts who recommended the "immediate and massive" attack on poverty through pre-schooling.

Never "Studied"

Many of these disadvantaged children have literally never used cut-out scissors, looked at a picture book, scribbled with crayons. Many have never even sat on a chair or completed the simplest taks.

"Many come from homes with no books, no magazines, newspapers, toys or pictures of any sort," said Dr. Julius Richmond, dean of New York State University medical school at Syracuse and director of "Head Start," in an interview. "Their parents regard them as a burden. With this background they are headed directly for careers of failure — as the least skilled, least educated and most rejected class in our society."

At the outset, the Office of Economic Opportunity, which is responsible for the program, planned on a $17 million summer program for 100,000 preschool children in 300 communities. But in just the seven weeks since the project was announced, more than 3,500 communities have deluged the OEO with requests for help in setting up programs.

Pressure On

Now the pressure in on to stretch this summer's goal to 300,000 children in 2,000 communities and to triple funds to $50 million this year alone. Next year the program is slated to run year-round with funds totaling $150 million.

Classes will be established full-time or part-time in schools, churches, community centers, etc. They will be staffed by professional and volunteer teachers — perhaps 20,000 — plus thousands of volunteer teacher aides. The aim is a staff-student ratio of one-to-four.

Each child will be introduced to basic numbers, letters and words; to toys and art materials; to parks and libraries; to policemen, firemen and their future schoolteachers.

Medical Tests

Each child will receive comprehensive medical exams and, if necessary, treatment to arrest early health defects. It's estimated that among the first 100,000 children, 15,000 cases of eye trouble and 30,000 cases of partial deafness will be detected.

Parents of the pre-schoolers, no matter how illiterate or impoverished, are to play an active role in the program — helping to prepare meals, supervise children, build teaching materials. Teachers, counselors and doctors will work closely with each parent.

But perhaps the key to the project will lie in exposing each child — often for the first time in his life — to SUCCESS and to a whole range of experiences that will help build at least a minimum of self-confidence, spontaneity, curiosity and self-discipline.

High Price

"The price of not tackling poverty at this critical age," Dr. Richmond emphasizes, "is consigning a vast number of children to failure in every future phase of their lives. On the other hand, if we train personnel fast enough, we might be able to close the 'gap' in as little as three to five years."

All responsible studies today underline the importance of beginning the "attack" on poverty at the nursery school level.

Mrs. Lyndon Johnson puts it in focus: "This may be the first breakthrough in education for millions of children — a realization that a child must be reached before he is six years old, if we are to stop building a foundation of failure."

Man Embarrassed As Poodle Chews Up His Dentures

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. — A California man disclosed he desperately needed an immediate denture repair after his pet poodle chewed up his false teeth. He stated that by using a new product called PLATE-WELD he was able to repair the break and replace loose teeth on the spot. He said it held like new. A California company is marketing this product under the name PLATE-WELD. They say it is available at all drug stores.

Rumpus in Berlin Seen as Artificial

Observer Says Efforts May Be Directed at W. Germany

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The new rumpus over Berlin has an artificial, improvised look.

It seems to fall short of real crisis. The Communist challenge is directed more at the West German government than specifically at the United States or the Western allies.

Big fusses over Berlin come regularly every few years. In the past, the appearance of a Berlin crisis usually was a reflection of some sort of Soviet policy problem, domestic or foreign.

This time it is possible the East German Communists insisted something had to be done to challenge the West German Parliament's plan to meet in West Berlin Wednesday. But the East German interference with land and air traffic to the isolated city undoubtedly was undertaken with Soviet approval.

In each successive crisis, the Russians evidently have hoped to make some sort of permanent gain from sanctioning and supporting harassment of air and autobahn traffic. Each time they have pulled up short of the dangerous showdown with the United States and the West.

This time Soviet policy makers, who have not been accomplishing much recently, might see some advantages in carefully heating up the Berlin atmosphere, but the operative word is "carefully."

Rescue Method A Surprise to 4 Spelunkers

Diver From Navy Dies as He Aids Last of Explorers

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark. (AP) — The first sight of a skin diver bobbing to the surface didn't surprise any of the spelunkers trapped in flooded Rowland Cave, says Hugh Shell.

"But we hadn't anticipated the diver suggesting we put on some skin diving gear and go back out with him under the water," said Shell in an interview Monday several hours after the tragedy-marred rescue. "We thought he'd bring in supplies and we'd wait for the water to fall."

Skin divers led Shell, 40, of Batesville, Ark., and three college students, one at a time, through the 200 feet of murky water to safety outside the cave.

Shell and the other spelunkers — Hogan Bledsoe, 20, of Lake Village, Ark., and Steve Wilson, 20, of Batesville, students at Arkansas Tech, and Mike Hill, 19, of Batesville, a student at Arkansas College — came through their more than 36 hours in the cave showing no ill effects.

One of the divers collapsed at the mouth of the cave and died after helping out the last of the four explorers. He was Chief Damage Controlman Lyle E. Thomas, 39, one of three Navy divers flown in from Washington to help the rescue effort. Dr. T. J. Burton, Stone County coroner, attributed Thomas' death to a heart attack.

Second Death Recorded for Shooting Spree

Young Student Goes Berserk in Mississippi Store

SUMMIT, Miss. (AP) —"I am God! The Negro is God! Nobody can do anything to me!" shouted Isaac Brown Jr., 22, a Negro college student, as he wounded five white persons — one of them fatally — and then shot his father to death.

The second victim of the shooting spree, Ed Smith, 45, died Monday night in a hospital in nearby McComb. His death was not disclosed by authorities until early today.

Brown was in custody in an undisclosed jail where officers rushed him following his capture a short time after he apparently went berserk in a hardware store.

Grave Condition

J.F. Schluter, 80, owner of the hardware store and Smith's uncle, was reported in grave condition.

The others, Smith's brother, Herbert, 51; Miss Julia Ioak, 43, the hardware store's bookkeeper, and Walter Roberts, 80, who was sitting on a bench outside the store, were recovering satisfactorily.

Officers related the events this way:

Brown entered the hardware store and asked to see a .22 caliber pistol. Ed Smith showed him the weapon and demonstrated how to load it.

Continued Shooting

Roberts, outside, heard the shots and began to slip away from the store. Brown stepped outside and shot him in the back, thn reentered the store and continued firing.

He left the store and met his father.

The elder Brown was shot in the chest.

The youth then bolted for a house, which officers quickly surrounded. After being slightly wounded, Brown was captured and handcuffed.

Authorities said the Elder Brown went to Tuskegee Sunday to bring his son home at the request of college officials.

Bombers Make 6 Flights

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — More than 120 Communist Viet Cong were killed and six Americans were dead or missing today in one of the bloodiest engagements in the Mekong delta in months, U.S. officials said.

Initial reports indicated that South Vietnamese government forces suffered more than 60 casualties, including about 16 killed.

The confirmed American dead were a U.S. Army officer and a U.S. Navy officer. Their deaths brought to 323 the number of Americans killed in combat in South Viet Nam since December 1961.

Crewman Missing

Four U.S. Army helicopter crewmen were missing and believed dead. Their aircraft was hit by 50-caliber Viet Cong machinegun fire and exploded in air

The helicopter had been providing cover for a downed Vietnamese air force fighter-bomber.

A second U.S. Army helicopter was shot down while covering the same crash. Its four crewmen were rescued and were reported only slightly injured.

Heavy fighting was reported still in progress. The scene was the Ca Mau Peninsula, about 130 miles southwest of Saigon.

16 Strikes

U S. Air Force B57 jet bombers flew 16 strikes against Viet Cong in the area today.

Elsewhere in South Viet Nam, 32 American strikes were flown, making today one of the heaviest days of air operations in South Viet Nam to date.

Military sources said a Communist captain was among the Viet Cong killed in the Ca Mau fighting. Many of the enemy casualties were reported brought down by fire from American helicopters.

An American source said the Viet Cong casualty count was confirmed by American officers.

Fresh Food Supply For West Berlin Is Being Affected

BERLIN (AP) — The East German Communists closed the Berlin autobahn for 4½ hours today and a Soviet jet buzzed West Berlin's big Tempelhof Airport.

The United States, Britain and France strongly protested the shutdown on the autobahn and a U.S. Air Force spokesman said the buzzing also would be protested

The spokesman said a Soviet twin-engine plane came in from the east at 500 feet and swept across the field, which is heavily used by commercial airliners flying in and out of West Berlin.

"The visibility was good and there were observers who clearly saw the red star on the plane," the spokesman declared.

He reported a protest would be presented to the head of the Soviet group at the Berlin air safety center.

The U.S. Army reported that five Allied vehicles held up on the autobahn were allowed to proceed at 2 p.m. One U.S. military sedan was stopped at Babelsberg on the West Berlin end. At Helmstedt on the other end of the autobahn four Allied vehicles were detained.

There were no signs that U.S., British or French authorities were planning any strong measures. The East Germans closed the 110-mile lifeline linking the city with West Germany for 3½ hours Monday.

Senate Asked To Ratify U.N. Charter Change

Membership of Two Councils Would be Raised

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked the Senate today to ratify amendments to the United Nations charter to increase membership of the Security Council and the Economic Social Council.

He said the amendments "will strengthen the ability of the United Nations to act as a force for peace and the progress of mankind."

Under one amendment, the size of the Security Council would be increased from 11 to 15 and the voting majority of the council from 7 to 9.

The size of the Economic and Social Council would be increased from 18 to 27 with the right of veto of the permament members not affected.

Judge Continues Krebiozen Trial

CHICAGO (AP)—A U.S. District Court judge has continued on a day-to-day basis the trial of four promotors of Krebiozen

Judge Julius J. Hoffman said Monday that because defense attorney Maurice J. Walsh is engaged in another case, he will keep the indictment pending and ready for trial when all counsels can participate.

The indictment charges mail fraud, mislabeling, conspiracy and making false statements in connection with Krebiozen — promoted by its backers as a cure for cancer. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration and the American Medical Association have termed it worthless as a cancer cure.

Under indictment are the drug's foremost endorser, Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, once vice president of the University of Illinois; Dr. Stevan Durovic, a Yugoslavian immigrant who said he processed Krebiozen from horse blood; his brother, Marko, an attorney; and Dr. William F. P. Phillips, a general practitioner and associate of the Krebiozen Research Foundation.

Russian, Polish Pact Being Drawn

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Top Soviet and Polish leaders met behind closed doors today writing a new friendship treaty which appeared to be another move toward perpetuating the division of Germany.

Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, who, Monday began a five-day visit, had no scheduled public appearances except an evening piano concert.

British Set New Tax on Capital Gains

LONDON (AP) — The Labor government slapped a stiff tax on capital gains and corporation profits and outlawed most tax-free expense account spending today in its budget for 1965-66.

Also effective today, as previously announced by Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan, the basic British income tax rises from 38.75 per cent to 41.25 per cent.

Outlining his budget to the House of Commons, Callaghan said he planned to raise a total of $700 million a year in new taxes and was determined to cut the outflow of British capital abroad by $280 million a year.

In 1964, he pointed out Britain's balance of payments deficit reached a staggering $2.086 billion, including a net capital outflow of $1,038,800,000.

Pope Reported About To Alter Church Law On Mixed Marriages

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI was reported today preparing a document extensively altering Roman Catholic Church law on mixed marriages, doing away with written promises from the non-Catholic and guaranteeing his or her religious liberty.

Italian papers speculated that the pontiff would shortly issue a "Motu Proprio," or personal administrative decree, altering the marriage section of the 46-year-old Code of Canon Law.

A Vatican official said, however, that the Pope would not publish such a document for some time. The official said a committee assigned by the Pope to review Church laws on marriage was still working out its recommended changes. The official is a prelate associated with that committee.

U. S. Protestants See Hope of Church Merger

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Church representatives, seeking a wide scale reunion among American Protestants, today saw a boost to their efforts in multiplying church mergers in other countries.

Describing a series of such Christian consolidations in Europe, Africa and Asia, the Rev. Dr William O. Wolf, an Episcopal theologian of Cambridge, Mass., said: "It has happened abroad. It is happening. It can happen here."

6 Denominations

Six denominations, with nearly 23 million members, are involved in the U.S. talks — United Presbyterians, Methodists, Episcopalians, Christian (Disciples) Churches, Evangelical United Brethren and the United Church of Christ.

Overseas counterparts of these denominations are among those cited as being united in other lands.

"Schemes for union such as the one we're attempting are taking place almost everywhere," said the Rev. James I. McCord, president of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary of Princeton.

On the other hand, a Methodist bishop voiced a go-slow note.

Bishop F. Gerald Ensley, of Columbus, Ohio, said his own church's plans for bilateral merger with the Evangelical United Brethren made it difficult to give attention just now to broader reunion.

Man Rescues Sister From Floodwaters

VERSAILLES, Mo. (AP) — A station wagon stalled on a flooded bridge over Indian Creek near Versailles Monday. The driver, Herman J. Knight, 48, of St. James, Mo., carried his wife, Lois, 45, and 15-month-old daughter, Cheryl Lynn, through the swirling water to safety.

Then he returned for his sister, Juanita Farmer, 55, who has arthritis. She had reached the rear bumper when a log hit the car, pushing it to the side of the bridge.

Knight grabbed his sister with one arm as the car went over the side of the bridge, grasped the log with the other arm and rode it about 100 yards downstream until they reached shore safely.

Selma Mayor Denies Tricking by Negro On Washington Visit

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Mayor Joe Smitherman denies that he and a companion were conned into paying a Negro man to find them some entertainment in Washington, D.C.

Deputy Police Chief Lawrence A. Hartnett reported in Washington Monday that James Edwards, 44, a Negro, had been arrested on a charge of grand larceny by trick. He was picked up, Hartnett said, after a tipster told police a man was bragging about conning the mayor of Selma.

Radio Hanoi Boasts More MIG Kills

TOKYO (AP) — Radio Hanoi said today MIG fighters surprised a formation of U.S. fighter-bombers on a raid over North Viet Nam Saturday and "shot down a number of them." It boasted also that a lone MIG pilot routed four U.S. planes attempting to strike back at the Communist jets.

The North Vietnamese claims contradicted reports by U.S officials in Saigon. The American authorities said three Soviet-built MIGs showed up during a raid by U.S. Navy planes on a bridge 65 miles south of Hanoi Saturday, but darted into heavy haze without tangling with the American planes.

Service Evaluates All Tips

Informers Help IRS Catch Tax Delinquents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 100,000 informers help the Internal Revenue Service each year by providing tips on people who haven't paid their taxes.

The IRS says many do so "from patriotic motivation or civic duty." A few get paid for it.

The number of persons providing such tips has grown steadily.

An IRS spokesman said the service doesn't solicit income tax tips but merely evaluates those that come in and follows them up if an investigation seems warranted. He noted that the FBI and other law enforcement agencies use informers routinely.

Preliminary Checks

Only one out of every 10 tips results in even a preliminary investigation.

In the fiscal year which ended last June 30, the service collected $18.1 million as a result of tips compared with $12.7 million in the previous year.

The IRS paid $565,000 to 822 informers last year.

It has accepted tips for many years although the practice has been criticized by those who contend the informers are seeking revenge or perhaps are merely envious of a wealthy neighbor or employer.

A Congress member who heard from some of his constituents on the subject asked the service for an explanation.

According to some reports, the IRS pays a flat 10 per cent of the additional taxes collected to an informer after deducting collection expenses, but this could not be confirmed.

Tipster's Reward

During the last fiscal year, 14,494 persons applied for rewards but only 822 were allowed. The average payment was about $800.

Surrender of Bataan Recalled

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — One of the darkest hours of World War II will be recalled Friday when a white flag of surrender is raised over the New Mexico Capitol grounds.

The flag will commemorate the 23rd anniversary of the American surrender of Bataan in the South Pacific to the Japanese in 1942.

Manuel Armijo of Santa Fe, a survivor of the Bataan death march and now director of the State Veterans Service Commission, will raise the flag with little fanfare as he has done each April 9th for several years.

Khrushchev Wishes for World Peace

Newsmen Meet Former Red Chief At Moscow Exhibit

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev has broken six months of silence on political matters with a new demand for peaceful coexistence, a Scandinavian correspondent in Moscow reported today.

Lars Bringert of the Copenhagen Politiken and the Swedish Dagens Nyheter reported that he encountered the former Soviet premier and his wife at an art exhibit in Moscow Monday.

"I want peace for everyone and wealth for everyone," Bringert quoted Khrushchev as saying. "The politics of the peaceful coexistence one founded must continue."

By "one" Khrushchev obviously meant himslf, Bringert said.

"The world must coexist," Khrushchev continued, shaking his forefinger in customary fashion. "No alternative can be found.

"Trying to solve controversial questions with weapons is a practice that must belong to the past or we will be thrown in disaster. It would begin in a small way like in Viet Nam and finish in destruction. That is why I want peace for the whole world."

King Defends Action Against Alabama

Boycott Designed to Force White Hostility Into Open

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. predicted today that a planned boycott of Alabama will produce action toward removing racil inequities despite "a temporary bitterness and alienation of people."

King said in an interview that a three-stage economic withdrawal was necessary in order to bring hostility and discrimination into the open in Alabama and force the white citizens to deal with these factors.

Economic Withdrawal

Answering criticism from various sources, King said the boycott would not cause more harm than good to the civil rights cause.

"It will do just what critics think it won't," he said.

The boycott was announced last week after King met with the executive board of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference which he heads. The economic withdrawal is part of an Alabama civil rights drive, centering on Negro voting, now in its 12th week.

King said he hoped the threat of the boycott alone would produce the desired results. But he said that before calling off the boycott, he would want commitments on voting rights and other issues from Gov. George C. Wallace and Alabama's political leadership.

The Negro minister, winner of the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize, also said some form of demonstrations would continue in Alabama until Congress acts on the new voter rights bill.

Here are questions and answers from the interview:

Q: Are you going through with the Alabama boycott?

A: Yes. Very definitely.

Final Plan

Q: It has been reported that the final plan is a softening of your original statement — a backing off of a massive withdrawal program. Is this true?

A: I wouldn't say it was a backing off. When I made the proposal it was in terms of a general boycott. If there's any softening it's only to give Alabama a chance for the decent people and moderates to rise up.

(Under the plan announced, the three stages of the boycott

Bid Opening Tonight for New London's New School

New London Gauge Shows Gains as Fishermen Watch

NEW LONDON — The Wolf River has risen 1.3 feet since the beginning of the month according to Ruben Voss, who reads the New London gauge for the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers. Figures do not include Monday's gains.

The gauge reading Thursday was up 2.9 feet from the 747.63 feet above sea level which is zero on the gauge. Saturday the reading was only 3.2, but in the following two days the river rose a foot and was still on the rise. In the 24-hour period between Sunday and Monday morning readings the river rose 8 foot.

Fishermen also are becoming encouraged, not only by the increasing water level, but also by the continued warm weather which is signaling the ice in the Wolf will soon be out.

New London fishermen are estimating the river will be ice free by Thursday or Friday.

Hilbert Board OKs Utility Extensions

Final Payment Made on Village's Water and Sewerage Systems

HILBERT — The village board, having learned that final payment on its water and sewerage system has been made, approved a 400-foot extension of mains along State 57.

Action came after the board aired requests for additional connections to serve new homes being built along the highway. The extension will be south of the current service limits.

No cost estimates were given. Engineers will be hired to prepare plans and specifications for the project.

At Vernon Schomberg's suggestion, the board approved purchase of 1,200 feet of water main piping and the necessary fittings. Schomberg recommended the purchase, stating that it would eliminate utility work delays in the event of a steel strike and could effect a saving to the village if prices increase.

Final Payment

Mrs. Arthur Pruess, clerk, told the board that the final $5,000 payment on revenue bonds which financed the water and sewage systems had been made.

The village's only current debt is $5,000 for some recent extensions along State 114.

Foresight shown by former village boards was lauded by Orville Manz, village president. The water system was started in 1936 as a Works Progress Administration (WPA) fire protection project.

The sewerage collection system and some water main extensions were started in 1940 under then village president T. L. DeLanty. Bonds totaling $75,000 were sold to finance the work and the village borrowed an additional $8,000 to complete it.

Current Costs

Manz said that at current construction costs, the work would cost several hundred thousand dollars.

Also approved by the board was the sale for $150 of a three-foot wide by 550-foot strip of village land to Clarence Stengel. Stengel had previously asked to buy more land but the board rejected the request.

Stengle wants the land to expand his store. With the purchase and the seven-foot strip he owns, he plans a 10-foot addition.

Stengel will be required to pay all legal costs in the property transaction, the board ruled.

His request for parallel parking on Main and Sixth streets was turned over to the street committee for review. It will give its recommendations at the April meeting.

$1.4 Million Bond Sold; Ready in '66

NEW LONDON — Bids for a $1.4 million new high school will be opened at 8 p.m. today by the New London Board of Education.

More than 200 persons are expected to attend the bid openings in the Washington High School auditorium. Most will be bidders in one of the seven different bid categories.

Bid divisions are general contracting, excavation, heating and air conditioning, plumbing and drainage, ventilation, electrical, painting and folding partitions.

H. James Gabriel, architect for Edgar A. Steubenrauch and Associates, Sheboygan, said a completion date of July 1, 1966, is foreseen for the 410 by 247-foot building.

For 1966-'67 Term

H. James Ramsdell, superintendent, said installation of equipment in the new building would not be completed for an additional two months, however, pushing the entire project completion date near the opening of the 1966-67 school term.

Items to be bid as alternates include terazzo or vinyl asbestos flooring, gym dividing doors, acoustical flooring for the library, gymnasium flooring and windows.

Bonding for a $1.4 million building was approved in the 1964 spring election and the bonds were sold in July by the T. G. Evenson Co., Minneapolis, Minn., a fiscal agent.

The non-callable bonds are for a 17-year period and carry a 3.13 per cent interest rate.

A performance bond of one per cent of the contract amount will be furnished by the school district.

For 800 Students

Gabriel said it looks as though no problem will be encountered in getting a bid within the bond issue to cover the cost of constructing the 104,000 square foot building planned to accommodate 800 students.

Opening of bids is on schedule according to plans laid down by Gabriel last fall. Bid opening date at that time listed the date as late March.

Ramsdell said it was possible the board would not decide on the successful bidders at today's meeting.

Hear Olympic Coach

Downtown Coaches Honor Athletes at Waupaca High

WAUPACA — Waupaca High School lettermen were honored Monday night at an athletic banquet sponsored by the Downtown Coaches Club. More than 215 athletes, parents and sports fans attended.

Charles "Rut" Walter, track coach at the University of Wisconsin, told of his experiences as a coach of last year's U S. Olympic track team and the trip to Tokyo. Walter, a graduate of Northwestern University and a member of that school's athletic staff for more than 30 years, has been the head track coach at the University of Wisconsin for the past four years. In that time he has brought three Big Ten track titles to Wisconsin and one second place. He was brought to the banquet Monday night through the efforts of the Coaches Club committee and R. E Johnson.

Coach Walter told of some of the experiences he and members of the Olympic team encountered while in Tokyo One of the unfortunate incidents at the Olympic village where the athletes stayed, he said, was that the Russian and Iron Curtain country athletes were forbidden to associate or even speak with athletes of the free countries Doors leading to their buildings were guarded, he said.

Russian Showing

The reason for the Russians' poor showing in last year's Olympics was that they reached their peak in 1960 at Rome and since that time have not added new athletes to their squad, he said. The Russians won only two gold medals while the U. S. team won 12 To even place in the events, Walter said, an athlete had to either tie or break an Olympic or world record, and the Russians did not anticipate this stiff competition.

Walter complimented the Waupaca Athletes for the fine record they have compiled this year. Waupaca had an undefeated football season and was rated second in small schools of the state, won the state curling championship and finished second in basketball conference play.

A total of 54 lettermen were guests of honor and a spokesman from each of the sports addressed the group. Jim Strebe represented the football team; Errol Sorenson, cross country; Dave Petersen, basketball; Craig Taylor, curling; Jay Richards, volleyball; Tom Hendrickson, baseball; Bill Braatz, golf, and Brian Erickson, track.

PSC Repeals Embargo on Truck Traffic

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — For the first time in many years, there will be no embargo on truck traffic on major highways of the state during the weekends of the summer tourist travel season.

The Public Service Commission has announced the repeal of its traditional summer truck restrictions order, after receiving no objections to an earlier announcement of its intention to abandon the embargo.

Gradual improvement of the major highways through the construction of two lane systems and others, plus a reduction of weekend truck traffic because of changes in the transportation economy, have contributed to the suspension of road use restrictions.

New London Youth Safe in Chile Quake

NEW LONDON — A New London woman has received word from her grandson that he is unhurt and only felt slight tremors caused by an earthquake that shook central Chile early last week.

Mrs. George W. Demming, 511 Wyman St., New London, said her grandson, Mark, in a letter had said only slight shaking of the ground occurred at Conception University where he is attending school.

The university is located approximately 100 miles to the south of the quake zone, where an estimated 400 persons lost their lives.

Demming was granted permission by the New London Board of Education to complete graduation requirements early so he could enroll in the South American school.

MARION — A humorous political spoof, the "East Side Story" will be featured in Friday night's Talent Show sponsored by the Library Club as a benefit for the American Field Service Chapter at the high school.

The political satire will feature an alledged conflict between Russian and Western nations. It will incorporate tunes from "The West Side Story" in a musical rendition by the school choir.

School organizations will provide skits. Winning act will receive a trophy.

State Building Commission May be Revised

Bill Would Make It Representative of More Areas, Larger

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Reorganization of the increasingly important state building commission to make it larger and more representative of the entire state has been asked in a bill introduced by Sen. Jerris Leonard, assistant leader of the Republican majority in the State Senate.

The commission since its creation has consisted of six members of the legislature, the governor, and an eighth member chosen by the governor.

Leonard has asked for a 12-member commission to include the governor and a citizen member, and five members of each house of the legislature.

The measure is believed to represent the wishes of the Republican majority of the State Senate, which was engaged in a brief dispute earlier this year with the Democratic majority of the State Assembly about the structure of the commission which controls millions of dollars of building funds and the quasi-public corporations which issue long-term state bonds to supplement cash building appropriations authorized by the Legislature.

Presently a Member

Leonard is now a member of the commission and is the president of its major subsidiary corporation.

His bill would provide for the selection of legislative members according to the wishes of the majority party in each house, but would expressly require minority party representation from each legislative house also.

The measure would also require the legislative officers in selecting members "to give broad geographic representation."

There have been complaints about the lack of geographic balance of the commission membership in the past.

Formal Opening of Airport Is May 15

Date May Change to Coincide With Air Wisconsin Operation

Tentative plans were discussed Monday for formal opening of the new Outagamie County Airport on May 15.

The tentative May date was chosen by the Outagamie County airport committee because it is expected that "Air Wisconsin," a new Fox Cities-based urban airline, may be ready for operation by that time.

Committee chairman Supv. Mark Catlin Jr. suggested the formal airport opening be delayed until Air Wisconsin purchases equipment which could be displayed.

"As soon as we hear something definite from them," Catlin said, "we'll call a special meeting to make final plans for the formal opening."

Approve Equipment

Business conducted by the committee included the purchase of a wheeled extinguisher to increase fire fighting capacity at the new airport for $474, and the authorization for County Business Administrator Alvin Woehler to request bids from five leading manufacturers of "H facilities."

"H facilities" make up the equipment necessary for an instrument approach landing system with a radio beacon. The equipment, installation and Federal Aviation agency inspection is expected to cost about $2,500.

Installation and operation is expected in time for the informal opening of the new Town of Greenville airport on April 24.

C of C to Reactivate Ice Carnival in Chilton

Chamber Also Approves 1965-66 Budget, Considers Properties for Farm Museum

CHILTON—The ice carnival will be restored to a list of winter activities, the Chamber of Commerce decided at its meeting last week.

Board members said they felt the carnival, which was dropped last year, creates much interest among area youths. Named to the planning committee were Nyles Papendieck, Ronald Hanson and Edward Drone.

The Chamber board also approved its 1965-66 budget at the session.

Additional pieces of property are being considered for the site of the proposed museum to house the collection of farm implements now on display at the Dr. Royal Klofanda home, according to F. J. Flanagan, secretary.

The Chamber committee headed by J. E. Sohrweide and Claude Weber will recommend to the city council specifications of the welcome signs to be put up at the three entrances to the city. Ald. Henry Koch said the council is anxious to get the C of C's opinion.

Right of Accused

Supreme Court Took 174 Years in Ruling

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The mills of justice grind so slowly it has taken the Supreme Court 174 years to say a man tried for crime in a state court has as much right to question his accuser as a man tried for crime in a federal court.

It finally reached that point Monday in the case of Bob Granville Pointer, convicted in Texas of robbing Kenneth W. Phillips of $375. By the time Pointer was brought to trial Phillips had moved to California.

Since he didn't show up at the trial, Pointer's lawyer couldn't cross-examine him. Instead, the state offered as evidence against Pointer a transcript of testimony given by Phillips at a preliminary hearing some time before.

Sixth Amendment

In the appeal to the Supreme Court Pointer's lawyer argued that, under the Constitution's Sixth Amendment guarantee of an accused man's right to confront his accuser, his client should have been able, but wasn't, to question Phillips.

The Supreme Court agreed. Its decision was a landmark. And what happened to Pointer in Texas can never happen again — at least in that way — in state criminal trial.

But why did it take the Supreme Court all these years to reach a decision which might seem obvious to anyone reading the Constitution? This is an explanation, along with two other cases to explain a delay of almost two centuries.

In 1791 the first 10 amendments to the Constitution — the Bill of Rights — were adopted because the states were afraid the federal government might in time encroach upon what they considered the rights of states and individuals.

Other Guarantees

Among other things these amendments guaranteed trial by jury, religious liberty, freedom of speech, of the press, and of the people to petition the government for redress of grievances.

Two of these amendments — the Fifth and Sixth — are particularly pertinent here. The Fifth said a man could not be compelled to testify against himself.

The Sixth said a person accused of crime not only had a right to be informed of the charge against him but to confront his accusers and to have a lawyer to defend him.

For much of its history the Supreme Court took the view that the Bill of Rights' guarantees applied only to what happened within federal jurisdiction and not to the states at all.

In fact, more than 100 years ago it ruled that the bill's amendments applied only to federal jurisdiction. A change of view set in, but ever so slowly, after the adoption of the 14th Amendment in 1868.

Due Process

This one, aimed at protecting the newly freed Negroes, said every one must have equal protection of the laws and that no one could be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law.

Gradually in the years since the court decided, although with a slowness that seems unbelievable, that this 14th Amendment meant various provisions of the Bill of Rights did and must apply to states.

But as late as 1908 the courts specifically held that the Fifth Amendment — which said a man can't be compelled to give testimony which might incriminate him — did not apply to state proceedings.

It was only last June that the court reversed itself on that. Justice William J. Brennan Jr., wriing the 5-4 decision, said:

Prevent Invasion

The 14th Amendment's guarantee of due process of law for everyone "secures against state invasion the same privilege that the Fifth Amendment guarantees against federal infringement — the right of a person to remain silent unless he chooses to speak in the unfettered exercise of his own will, and to suffer no penalty."

Back in 1942 the court took a step, an extremely timid one, in making the Sixth Amendment's guarantee — that a man accused of crime is entitled to a lawyer — apply to state courts but only if the accused faced the death penalty.

After 21 years the court was ready to go further, and did. In 1963 the court ruled that every state, as well as every federal court, must provide an attorney for a person charged with crime but too poor to hire a lawyer.

And in Monday's case of the Texas man whose lawyer wasn't able to question the accuser — because the accuser wasn't there — the court reversed previous decisions in saying a man accused of crime in a state court must be permitted to cross-examine his accuser.

WSU-O Names 10 to Indian Research Unit

Advisory Associates Appointed to Assist In Study Program

OSHKOSH—Four research associates and six members of an advisory board have been appointed for the Wisconsin Indians Research Institute at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh, according to George E. Fay, institute director.

Research associates in anthropology are Robert J. Hruska, assistant director and curator of anthropology at the Oshkosh Public Museum, and Richard Peske, graduate student at the University of Wisconsin, Madison.

Research associates in ethnohistory are Dr. George W. Sieber, associate professor of history, WSU-O, and Dr. Roger L. Nichols, assistant professor of history at WSU-O

Advisors Named

Advisory board members are Roy Oshkosh, titular chief of the Menominee tribe; Wilbur Blackdeer, representative of the Winnebago Indians of Wisconsin; Norbert Hill, chairman of the Oneida Tribal Council; Gordon A. Bubolz, president of the Home Insurance Co., Appleton; Dr. Raymond J. Ramsden, vice president of academic affairs at WSU-O, and John Kuony, director of the Oshkosh Public Museum.

Advisors for the Chippewa, Potawatomi, and Stockbridge-Munsee tribes will be added as soon as representatives can be found.

The institute was created at WSU-O in October, 1964 in an attempt to fulfill an apparent need in Indian studies in Wisconsin and the northern Midwest.

The institute will devote its efforts to anthropological investigations of the indigenous Indian cultures of Wisconsin—past and present, with additional research into the adjacent Central Plains, Great Lakes, and Eastern Woodlands.

As a part of the expanding program of the department of sociology and anthropology, the institute will serve as an educational medium to the university students, develop as a museum for research and study to preserve the Indian heritage of the state, and to make contributions wherever possible to the present surviving Indian populations.

Legislature Adjusts Traditional Financing of Forestry Program

Measure Under Consideration Provides Future Growth Costs From General Fund

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The legislature is quietly adjusting traditional policy in the financing of the extensive Wisconsin public forestry and forest protection program.

Future cost growth of the state forestry service will be borne by the state general fund, supported by state-levied taxes, instead of the local property tax base, according to a measure already approved by the State Senate in a 29 to 1 vote and now being readied for review in the State Assembly.

The question before the legislature is a constitutional amendment desired by the conservation administration and allied interests, including the big Wisconsin Forest products industry, to expand the budget base of the forestry program to take into account the recent inflation in the cost of reforestation, forest management, fire prevention and suppression, forest pest control, forest planting stock distribution, extension forestry services and others.

When the forestry tax amendment to the state constitution was enacted in 1927, it provided for a maximum state-levied property tax for forestry of two-tenths of a mill. That amount has been found to be insufficient. The 1961 and 1963 legislatures approved an increase in the maximum rate, which was submitted to a referendum in the spring of 1964 and narrowly defeated. Most officials believed the defeat resulted from its association with other and unpopular questions on the same ballot and this year the conservation department returned to the legislature with a request for a renewal of the amendment process.

But when the measure was reviewed in a Senate committee there were objections from some Milwaukee property interests concerned about property tax burdens, and Senate leaders modified the amendment to carry a provision that in the future the legislature would be authorized to appropriate state general funds to supplement the yield of the two-tenths of a mill tax on equalized value of real and personal property.

That was the proposal approved by the Senate and apparently scheduled for concurrence in the Assembly. Some conservation officials are disturbed by the new arrangement, feeling that the forestry program should have a steady and secure financial base. But they are supporting it, nevertheless, because legislative leaders have advised them that an extension of the property tax amendment is unacceptable.

Three Nursing Homes Proposed For Appleton

The sudden interest in this type of a facility was apparently triggered by the recent announcement by a local resident that he has completed plans for erecting a 100-unit nursing home complex south of the city.

Since then, three other developers have shown interest in building nursing homes at various fringes of the city but all projects appear to be in the speculative stage at this time.

—The request of Fred Heinemann to abandon a portion of Ravine Street.

—The Mayflower Park Estates plat and first addition to the Edwin E. Kloehn plat, both located between Highways 10 and 76.

$4 Million Spent By Allis-Chalmers In Appleton in 1964

He said the amount included plant payroll; purchases from suppliers; personal property, real estate, franchise, payroll, local and state taxes, donations; contributions to employe life insurance, health and accident insurance and retirement plans. The figure does not include interest on borrowed capital, dividend payments or state and federal income taxes.

Payroll for the Appleton plant amounted to $2,511,892 in 1964, Blystone said. The Appleton Works is the former Valley Iron Works.

Conservation Unit May Face Remodeling

Indication in Senate Is That Commission Politically Insecure

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Developments in the State Senate in recent days may suggest that the State Conservation Commission may not be as securely established in a political way as most observers, including this correspondent, have tended to believe.

There is now a fair chance, according to the comments of representative members of the Republican Senate majority, that an effort will be made to abolish the six-member part-time and unpaid Conservation Department directorship and replace it with a three-member, full-time commission of salaried professional administrators and policymakers.

That would follow the model that has been in operation for other major administrative services for many years, notably the important Industrial, Public Service and Highway Commissions.

Some revelatory reservations among representative and influential Republicans were thrown into the otherwise routinely partisan debate about the confirmation of Charles F. Smith of Wausau for a new term on the commission.

Sen. Jerris Leonard of Bayside, the assistant Republican floorleader, declared at one point his belief that the commission established in 1927 may have outlived its usefulness.

Commissioners "Deceived"

Leonard's complaint that the department staff has sometimes "deceived" the commissioners may be qualified by the realization that he has had some lively engagements with the commission as a private lawyer. But he also asserted that commissioners coming to Madison for a few hours of deliberation once each month are almost inevitably at the mercy of the information the professional administrators choose to provide them, which has a certain plausibility.

The commission's responsibilities are infinitely broader and the conservation program enormously more complex and important than it was nearly 40 years ago when the part-time policy system was created.

Noteworthy also, and perhaps more important, was the comment of Sen. Clifford Krueger of Merrill that he is willing to give public hearing to a bill that would abolish the present commission and to set up a full time board of three commissioners in its stead. Krueger is the chairman of the Senate Conservation Committee and is conspicuous for his friendly understanding of the conservation cause in general. Moreover, he represents a broad district in north central Wisconsin where conservation issues are vital and popular. Such a comment from him, as a careful and methodical politician not given to taking reckless chances, may be an omen.

Meanwhile, a young Democratic state senator from Milwaukee has introduced a bill to abolish the commission and to recreate it. It is not likely that freshman Sen. Schreiber would have offered such a bill without careful reflection and consultation with his elders in the party who are conscious of the political sensitivity of conservation as a popular issue.

All of which is not to suggest that the legislature is about to act to toss out the commission which has survived in its present form for so many years. In the first place, the Republican senate could not gracefully move in a serious way without consultation with Gov. Knowles or without his approval. The governor is intensely interested in the conservation program. Tampering with its administration would be a major political decision. There has yet been no sign that the leader of the Republican administration has anything of that nature in mind.

The Republican senators are throwing aloft trial balloons to test public reaction. The results will be as interesting to the general public as to themselves. There is nothing sacred about any particular form of administrative organization. Yet for the moment it is a fair guess that the private and guardedly public grumbling relates to deficiencies in the political relations of the Conservation Commission, rather than to serious intentions to upset the established pattern of conservation administration.

WSU-O Students Face Snowball Fight Charges

OSHKOSH — Fifteen Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh students who were arrested in connection with last Thursday's snowball fight which turned into a near-riot appeared in Winnebago County Court today and six pleaded innocent, six entered pleas of no contest, with three pleading guilty.

Two of those who pleaded guilty, Kenneth L. Shingler, 22, 60 Brix St., Clintonville, and Warren J. Peebles, 18, Wauwatosa, were fined $50 and costs by Judge James Sitter, with alternatives of 15 days in the county jail. Both paid the fines. The third who pleaded guilty, Donald E. Gorshe, 23, route 1, New London, will have further testimony in his case heard at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday. Shingler was arrested on Main Street near Irving Avenue and the other two were apprehended on Algoma Boulevard near the Reeve Memorial Student Union.

Those who pleaded no contest will appear in county court at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday. They include Michael P. Staniak, 18, 729 Ida St., Menasha; Thomas D. Findlay, 18, Milwaukee; Roger Steinfest, 19. Antigo; Randall S. Grobe, 20, Rhinelander; Paul E. Witte, 21, Wauwatosa, and Paul A. Walker, 18, route 1, Wautoma.

Testimony Conflicts

There was a great deal of conflict between police reports and defendants' testimony in court today. Staniak and Steinfest both said they were apprehended by fellow students and turned over to Oshkosh police while Findlay claimed he was merely a spectator. Witte told Judge Sitter that he had not thrown snowballs at police, as his arrest report claimed, and said he could produce a witness.

Those arrested on Algoma Boulevard who pleaded innocent had trial date set for 9:30 a.m. May 19. They included: Thomas D. Hammes, 18, Green Bay; James F. Bach, 18, 1904 N. Division St., Appleton; Lonny R. Jackson, 20, Lakewood, and John Bitenc, 18, Milwaukee. Those arrested in the vicinity of Main Street and Irving Avenue who pleaded innocent had trial date set for 9:30 a.m. May 21. They were: Ronald W. Wruck, 22, 121 John St., Neenah, and Le Roy H. Lathrop, 21, Black Creek.

Jackson had been charged with disorderly conduct at Main and Irving, but he protested that he had been arrested on Algoma Boulevard. The charge was amended to read Algoma Boulevard.

Bod for those pleading innocent and no contest was continued at $50 each.

Voting Rights Bill and the Constitution

One of the arguments used primarily by southerners against the proposed voting rights bill is that the United States Constitution states that the "time, places and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof." Actually the rest of the particular section apparently gives Congress the authority the voting rights bill would regulate, when it goes on to state: "But the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing Senators."

There are some good reasons why the voting rights bill needs careful scrutiny, especially in the arbitrary setting up of percentages of voters as reason enough to do away with all literacy tests. But the foot in the door for federal strings on national and state elections is clearly outlined in the Fourteenth Amendment.

Section 2 of that Amendment states that "Representatives shall be apportioned among the several states according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each state, excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for President or Vice President of the United States, Representatives in Congress, the Executive and Judicial officers of a state, or the members of the Legislature thereof, is denied to any male inhabitant of such state, being twenty-one years of age and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such state."

Some southerners still claim that the 14th and 15th Amendments are not valid, at least in their states, because ratification was made a qualification for restoration to the Union after the Civil War. However, the intent of the section is quite clear: the framers expected southern states to refuse voting rights to Negroes and sought means to force the establishment of the voting franchise. It would also appear that the right to vote for a male citizen of twenty-one (later of course extended to women) is almost absolute except for the specified matter of "rebellion or other crime." Do states have the right to require any kind of qualifying tests, either of literacy or the payment of a poll tax?

Section 2 of the 14th Amendment has never been applied despite the obvious abridgment of the right to vote for many Negroes in several states. Two groups recently sued in a United States District Court in Washington, asking that the Commerce Department and its census bureau collect the necessary information to carry out the denial of representation.

Both suits were filed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Legal Defense and Eucational Fund but they were different. Fifteen registered voters from states which do not use various subterfuges to deny voting rights contended that the failure to enforce the section diluted their representation. The other group contended that they had been denied the right to vote and that application of Section 2 would help remedy the situation.

But the judge dismissed the suits, ruling that neither group had standing to sue. Their interests were "remote and speculative and shared by millions of others." Moreover, the judge said that even if he were to grant the order it "would not vindicate their right to vote." He did not find authorization in the census law to carry out the actions necessary to try to enforce the amendment.

There are probably some legal technicalities here that do not appear to the layman. It would seem that Congress might have to implement the census law to grant it authority to make the necessary computations.

But the judge's point that "millions of others" were equally affected by the discrimination seems hardly reason for dismissal. It may be quite true that a cutting down of representation of states who deny voting rights may not gain those rights. But the 14th Amendment nevertheless states that it "shall" be done. And the youngsters who went to the United States Supreme Court to sue for the right to enter previously all white schools in the south were also only a fraction of the number the high court determined were being discriminated against.

It would be interesting to know what the present Supreme Court would rule in the matter and also whether the right to vote is made absolute, except for the restrictions outlined in Section 2 of the Fourteenth Amendment and so is in conflict with the earlier constitutional provision giving the state legislatures the right to determine the "manner" of voting.

Boy Scouts Look Ahead

Parents confronted with modern math and some of the other newly established methods of learning have had their troubles. But Boy Scouts' parents are in for even more difficulties. Scout merit badges now include oceanography, metallurgy, electronics and atomic energy. And one in space exploration is just around the corner—or should we say over the horizon?

In the first five months of the atomic energy badge, more than 3,700 Scouts sought information from the Atomic Energy Commission. The merit badge kit contains explanations of how and why there is atomic energy and directions on protection against radiation. The space exploration badge is being worked out with officials in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

But if there is temporary bewilderment for parents, the development of the new programs indicates once more that the Boy Scout program, now celebrating its fifty-fifth year, continues to look toward the future. To offer a meaningful program to young boys which will help them in building their characters and vocations, youth organizations must keep up with the times. The essentials of Americanism and democracy, honesty and courage, are not found merely in programs recalling our tough ancestors or their particular skills.

American pioneers looked forward and dared to break with old ways and even traditions. The Boy Scout modern merit badges not only keep their program up to date; they are able to relate the qualities and abilities of our forefathers to the problems and challenges that face our nation today.

Expanding Tourism in Wisconsin

The witnesses who addressed the legislature's finance committee in support of an enlarged tourist promotion program within the state government's range of services made the useful point that the variety of enterprises within the tourist industry is more capable of expansion than nearly any other within Wisconsin.

Gov. Knowles has shown a particular interest in tourism in the Wisconsin economy by associating it with his own industrial development program, and by suggesting a somewhat larger allowance for direct state advertising to overcome the cost inflation in such services in recent years. As he proceeds with his reorganization of the State Department of Resource Development he might well consider also whether the administration of the tourist promotion bureau would not more fittingly be a part of that department than the Conservation Department which has operated it for the last quarter of a century.

Sen. Risser and others of the legislature's budget committee asked whether the promotion emphasis of the state bureau has not been unrealistically narrow over the years. He noted that there has been comparatively little state advertising of winter recreational opportunities in this state as shown by the extraordinary popularity of ski resorts.

We have had the impression that our state publicists are excessively bound to established methods and habits. The fishing in Wisconsin is a powerful lure for nonresidents in the summer. But Wisconsin has many other charms to offer to its vacation visitors. Some recent studies have shown pretty conclusively that fishing is not the major attraction for the summer trade. The first of the appeals of Wisconsin is its satisfying scenery. Sightseeing, old-fashioned sightseeing, pulls more visitors into our state than any other single purpose. The country needs to be reminded that we have beauteous scenery in the winter and in the fall and in the spring, as well as during the traditional vacation period from July to September.

Associated with the promotion of our recreational opportunities among the vacationists of America must also be a more conscientious and vigorous effort to preserve the beauties of our outdoors. The "conservation" idea must be broadened to embrace not only the management of fish and deer, but the protection of our roadsides, our clean waters, our forests and marshes and the thousands of sparkling lakes in the woods

The charm of the Wisconsin landscape, indeed, will ultimately prove to be one of the most important weapons in the state's search for new industrial and commercial enterprises. A corporate manager scouting for a plant location must consider the hard economic realities of labor supply, transportation, raw materials, power and others. But he is also a human being and the quality of Wisconsin as a place to live—as well as to work—will inevitably play a part in his decision if other factors are equal.

Grant's Railroad Quite Exciting

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for April 8, 1865.

(This is part of a letter signed "Wolverine," a soldier with the Michigan troops near Petersburg, Va.)

Grant's army railroad, which runs along in the rear of our lines, is one of the institutions of the day. A man of the "old school" would stand aghast at beholding it and the speeds of the trains which follow each other in quick succession—three or four being in sight at the same time.

As the ground is by no means a level prairie, and the ties are laid on the surface with no grading, you can judge what an appearance the long trains make, now rushing into a hollow and soon climbing quite a hill on the opposite side.

Another feature of the road is that if our boys should make an advance in the morning and occupy a new position, the iron horse is up to them by afternoon with hard tack and coffee.

It's Adults Who Must Lead In Successful PTA Groups

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Several days ago a letter appeared in the People's forum entitled "Little Child Shall Lead; PTA Meet Fine Example." To refresh one's memory it was about a PTA meeting in Appleton that had a successful night with an overflowing attendance and the writer felt they owed it all to the children because they brought their parents. By no means do I intend to pull feathers from anybody's hat because I know it takes the hard work of many people to plan an evening with such satisfying results. I would just like to make some comments because parents have the wrong idea of PTA and its purpose and I saw it again in this letter.

Many PTA units think they need the children urging parents to attend meetings in order to be successful. We felt the same way until two of us officers went to the state PTA convention at Milwaukee last April. We were quite proud of our attendance at meetings last year and of the number of members we had. But we used our children to bring home name tags and we had an attendance trophy. When we told of these things at the convention, Mrs. William Marsh, WCPT President, pointed out that any PTA that has to use the children to get attendance is a sick PTA. She stressed that a PTA is an adult organization made up of parents and teachers who are interested in promoting the welfare of children in the home, school, church, and community.

We learned a lot at that convention and put some of this information to use when last September came around. Since then we discontinued the name tags and the trophy. As a result our attendance has not dropped at all but increased from 185 to 236 members for this year. May I add we have a real participating membership. This all proves to us that we did not need the children. What is needed is an executive committee that works together, planning action, publicity, and good programs and a little co-operation from parents who are really interested in their children. Such parents are interested not only in the welfare of their child, but also in the place where they spend 5 to 6 hours of their day with someone else. These same parents also have an opportunity to meet their child's teacher on an equal basis. "Don't let a stranger teach your child." They would surely tell you.

Children have no place in a PTA, for this is a Parent-Teacher Association not a Parent-Teacher-Child Association. But it is because of the children that we have PTA's. Children are our most valuable asset and through the PTA we parents can safeguard our investments.

I feel the Objects of PTA tell this story best. They are as follows:

1. To promote the welfare of children and youth in home, school, church and community.
2. To raise the standards of home life.
3. To secure adequate laws for the care and protection of children and youth.
4. To bring into closer relation the home and the school, that parents and teachers may cooperate intelligently in the training of the child.
5. To develop between educators and the general public such united efforts as will secure for every child the highest advantages in physical, mental, social, and spiritual education.

Co-Treasurer & Membership Chairman of Little Chute State Graded PTA

Students May Not Be Wasting Efforts

On second thought, such antics as those of college students endeavoring to pack as many human bodies as possible into a telephone booth may not be as useless as they at first appear. Farmers Must Unite To Gain Their Ends

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Fox Valley farmers were urged last Wednesday at the Kaukauna Rural Life Conference to acquaint themselves with the Prsident's farm bill, then empress their view to the legislators. This appeared in the Thursday paper, but the reporter didn't cover all of Msgr. O'Rourke's talk. I'd like to add some information.

The theme of the talk and the entire conference was "Unity Under God." Msgr. O'Rourke concluded that every individual farmer, businessman and clergyman must acquaint himself with the farm situation, study what is happening around himself, no matter what his creed, affiliation or what farm organization he belongs to. He must unite in a Christian way and discuss his problems and differences. Basically farmers all want the same thing. This must begin on the local level or bottom with the individual, the clergy and local leaders.

The national leaders and officials also do this and they attempt to formulate a common policy, but the problem must be worked out from the bottom up and not the top down.

The top doesn't know what the majority wants or the problem the people face. Many of the top have held their positions for many years and have vague ideas of what the farmer needs or wants. Msgr. O'Rourke emphasized again this must be done in a Christian way.

Offers Four Reasons For Opposing Medicare

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I oppose the King-Anderson Bill popularly known as "Medicare." My reasons for this opinion follows:

1. This bill is financed through an increase in Social Security taxes. My objection to this is that Social Security is a regressive tax which as you know, is not based on your ability to pay. This means that the low wage earner pays as much in supporting this bill as the person whose salary is in the five-figure bracket.

2. This bill really doesn't provide much coverage. It provides only hospital and nursing homes coverage. The patient still has to pay the first $40 of the bill.

What about prescriptions and physicians' services? Are not these medical bills?

3. I believe we already have a good medical care for the aged bill on the books. The Kerr-Mills Bill provides coverage for only those who need it. This bill is financed jointly by the state and federal governments through general revenues. General revenue taxes are progressive and are based on ability to pay. This bill is run or directed on the individual states.

4. If the President and Congress want to get some political mileage out of this issue, why don't they improve the Kerr-Mills Bill instead of passing another bill which is controlled by the already too big Federal government. Thank you.

Maybe Critic Was Also An Amateur

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Perhaps your drama critic was a bit harsh in his review of the Appleton High chool production of "South Pacific." However, people who would like a critic to make special allowances for the performance of a company of amateur players should, in turn, be willing themselves to make special allowances for an amateur critic.

The Savage Cell — Chapter 2

People Dying, So Why Fool Around With Mice?

Editor's Note: Calling for an all-out attack on cancer, a veteran science reporter says the war has bogged down in bad communications, timidity and poor organization. This is another article condensed from the new book, "The Savage Cell."

BY PAT McGRADY

Some two million mice are available each year for research. A few years ago, the yearly total was only about 150,000 The greater demand has come from a federal program testing chemical agents to see if they will be effective against cancer.

About 800,000 of the two million mice eventually develop or are given cancer.

About 800,000 Americans also have cancer, and are available for study. Most of them are beyond cure by conventional means. In the care of skilled practitioners of experimental medicine, this tremendous population of sick people would offer a magnificent opportunity to study the inherited and environmental causes of cancers, the bio-chemical and emotional value of blood and other tests for cancer, improved diagnosis, the efficacy of types of surgery and doses of radiation, and the true value of various drugs, immune procedures, and combinations of therapies

Experimental Care

If the federal, state, local and other public and private health agencies were to move into modern health centers, staff them with the best doctors and researchers, and invite the 800,000 cancer patients to undergo conventional and experimental medical care, cancer control migh' be achieved in record time. Some incurable patients might be cured, and all would receive expert attention The libraries of reliable information rapidly gained could be applied to the salvage of cancer patients next year and the year after.

A large scale study of this sort would be costly, but in all likelihood much less expensive than the present practice under which families mortgage their futures in a usually losing fight against cancer. It would relieve many private physicians of the responsibility for the dreadful delays, the scandalous misdiagnoses, the improper treatments, and the pitiable deaths due to incompetence.

The alternative to such a system is the present practice and the plodding pace, via endless and largely fruitless mouse experiments, to cancer control in the distant future This is a system in which quacks compete quite successfully with many family doctors and in which controversial treatments, condemned by federal authorities and respectable medicine, quite naturally become a cause celebre

Urgent Subject

The matter of caner control — including the intimately related problems of science and medicine—is worthy of the most careful attention of the National Academy of Sciences. Its National Research Council, which since 1916 has mobilized the major scientific and technical organizations in matters of major scientific moment, would find cancer control an urgent subject for review. Each year cancer claims as many Americans as were lost in all the battles of World War II

There is no easy solution to the cancer problem, and there may be no considerable headway made until by some means the many growing pains of science and the ills of medicine are remedied.

There is need for a great expansion of undergraduate education, many more professional colleges, a thorough revision of the archaic aspects of medical and scientific education and practice and continuing postgraduate work, particularly for the physician.

Medical Crisis

The medical profession, rich in material rewards, nevertheless has been attracting relatively fewer students and, over several years, students of decreasing academic stature. And there is every indication that the present shortage of doctors will become more intense and the quality of doctors deteriorate further.

While the ranks of students entering science as a career are swelling, it is doubtful whether the pressures and disciplines of Big Research will permit the average to attain the production reached by scientists of bygone free and easy days

A major and still-growing problem in science and medicine is communications This is the gap which prevents a scientist from knowing what work has been done and is being done on the project he is contemplating. It prevents the physician from knowing that his "minor modification" will lead to the rapid decline and death of a patient doing well on an experimental treatment

Knowledge Buried

The communications fault lies not in a paucity of information but rather in a plethora of it. The estimated 20,000 journals dealing with biological subjects are studded with precious and semi-precious gems of knowledge buried in tons of dross and drivel

For some time it has been apparent that the great research emphasis placed on cancer in mice is not very helpful in controlling cancer in humans Drugs which affect the three standard mouse tumors often are useless clinically By the same token, drugs discovered by other means to help humans often have no effect on the mouse cancers

The problem concerns all citizens. In lives and money, they pay the bill. In each family of four, cancer will come on an average to one member. In every other household it will kill one person.

More than 250,000 school children are without mothers, and an additional 300,000 are without fathers, because of cancer.

Public Education

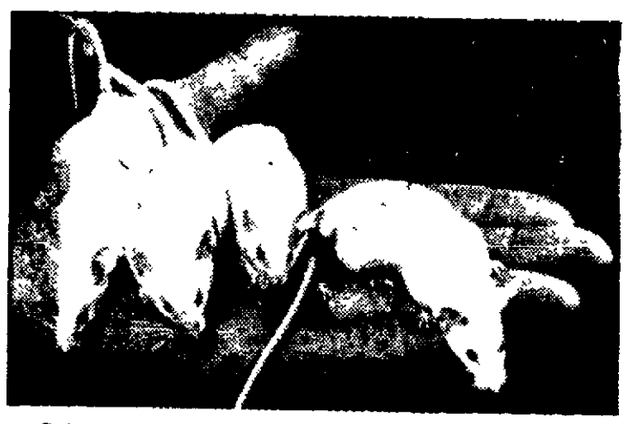

An interested, informed and intelligent citizenry can do much to speed cancer control The agencies concerned need their help. The American Cancer Society courts it in a program of public education.

Cancer control, like many seemingly impossible achievements of recent history, can and will come to pass.

Gamma-Globulin Combats Measles Well

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 31, have three-day measles and am a month pregnant. I took gamma-globulin, but it didn't do the job. What are the chances of having a normal baby?—Mrs. A. R.

Dr. Molner

Gamma-globulin is quite helpful (when given early enough) in making regular measles milder. This is because 90 per cent or more of us have had measles, so gamma-globulin, which is extracted from blood, can be expected to contain antibodies or protective particles which developed in blood donors having had the disease

But only about one person in five gets three-day measles (German measles) so there is much less chance that any given supply of gamma-globulin will contain antibodies against German measles.

In short, it's an outside chance Sometimes the gamma-globulin helps when given right after exposure; other times it doesn't.

True, German measles in the first three months can cause abnormalities and defects in babies. Can—not necessarily will.

Serious Defects

The baby may be perfectly healthy. However, I must admit that some have serious defects—but this can happen without German measles It is one of the hazards of life.

Certainly the risk from German measles is nothing like the terribly tragic children who were born so monstrously deformed because of thalidomide. A defect is one thing; extreme deformity is another

By way of prevention of defects, I think there is much to be said in favor of olders girls or young women (when not pregnant) hoping they will catch German measles, as the best protection against the danger of getting it early in pregnancy.

Women in early pregnancy should not only avoid contact with German measles, but with some other things, too Any disease that can cause high fever; any drug except under medical supervision, since even otherwise innocuous drugs, taken to excess, can do damage to the baby in its formative stages

Dear Doctor: Some of the girls at the office say they have had three-day or German measles several times. I understood that for the most part you get them only once, and the same for regular measles.—K. K.

You are correct. Usually you get German measles only once Some rare individuals do not produce antibodies, and so can have the disease more than once, but this is uncommon

Some of the supposed cases of German measles aren't really that at all Mild regular measles, mild scarlet fever, a fairly recently recognized ailment called "fifth disease" or Hungarian measles, all can produce a rash very similar to German measles, and doubtless account for a good many of the reports of having had it "more than once."

Dear Dr. Molner Please explain gonorrhea and does it turn into syphilis if not treated immediately?—Mrs L. R. M.

Gonorrhea and syphilis, while both venereal diseases, are caused by entirely different kinds of germs. Hence one does not turn into the other. (The two may be contracted at the same time)

Neither takes very long to cure if treated immediately A few weeks is usually ample But if treatment is delayed, longer treatment may be necessary and, more disturbing, there may be no way of correcting damage though the disease itself is cured.

Milwaukee Road Has Highest Profit in 4 Years, Head Says

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad Co. reports 1964 revenues were the highest in four years

William J Quinn, president of the Milwaukee Road, said Sunday last year's revenues totaled $228,238,802, up $5,090,909 from 1963

Quinn said the firm's net income was $5,314,801, compared with $5 393,544 in 1963 He said the improvement in over-all revenues helped offset sharply increased wage costs, off-pattern grain movements and interruptions in motor vehicle production

Quinn's report to stockholders also stated that the definitive agreement of consolidation between the Milwaukee Road and the Chicago and North Western Railway had been approved by directors of both companies."

He said the consolidation proposal would be presented to stockholders of both companies for their approval May 11.

Police on Subways May Cut Crime Rate

BY LARRY FRIEDMAN

NEW YORK (AP) — An armed patrolman on every train during high-crime night hours is the new weapon in the city's drive to rid the subways of terror and attacks by muggers and hoodlums.

"The hoodlums and toughs who prey on innocent people are going to be taught a lesson — a lesson they need," Mayor Robert F. Wagner said Monday night in a televised speech announcing the emergency program.

The mayor ordered 1,200 men into the campaign. He said one or more policemen also would patrol each of the subway system's 460 stations between 8 p.m. and 4 a.m. He described these hours as the key "trouble period."

Days Off

City policemen and police of the Transit Authority will be used on overtime on their days off.

Wagner said it would cost more than $9 million a year for manpower alone and stressed that "no price tag can be placed on safety."

It is estimated that nearly 900,000 of the subway system's 4.7 million daily riders travel between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m.

Safety in the subways has become a key issue for the approaching 1965 mayoral election campaign as Wagner, a Democrat, seeks a fourth term.

On March 25, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, replying to criticism of recent violence and murder in his state, said "Its still safer to ride the highways in this state than the subways in New York."

Top Priority

Wagner said the action to halt the spread of subway crime had become "top priority among all our undertakings."

"Crime is of nationwide concern today," Wagner said, "but New York City can and will lead the way in the fight."

He said the program was drawn to cope with the "roughnecks and wolf packs of young brutes and sadists who have terrorized and tormented subway riders."

— Sealing-off empty subway cars and closing of auxiliary station entrances and passageways during non-rush hours.

—Free subway rides for the 3,395 uniformed members of the Housing Authority police, correction officers and Sanitation Department police as they travel to and from assignments. Firemen and city policemen already travel free on the subways.

Wagner noted the Transit Authority is working on four experimental programs: television monitors on station platforms; an alarm system in each subway car connected to the motormen's cab, a pushbutton alarm system connecting change booths with transit and city police headquarters; and a two-way radio communication system between motormen and police headquarters.

"But there is no push-button formula for security against the kind of crime plaguing our subways," Wagner said. "We had to adopt measures which would directly deter crime on the scene and catch criminals in the act.

"No electronic equipment can do this. Only policemen can."

Contain Necessities

Scientists Have Designed Homes For First U. S. Moon Residents

BALTIMORE (AP) — Man hasn't reached the moon yet, but homes for him to live in when he gets there already have been designed.

Ranging in size from modest, one-room efficiency units to more elaborate trailer-type homes, the lunar shelters will house American astronauts as they explore the moon surface.

They will contain the necessities to support two to three men for periods of from 30 to 45 days.

Designed by engineers at the Westinghouse Defense and Space Center, two of the shelters include connecting work areas which could be created by a telescopic wall arrangement. The additional space could be used for vehicle maintenance or scientific projects requiring large work areas.

Roving Vehicle

The shelters as well as a lunar roving vehicle, which the astronauts would need for transport tion over the moon's surface, could be transported to the moon in a single flight of a Saturn V rocket.

The unit would arrive on the moon in a dome-shaped package with expandable sides.

The smallest of the shelters is a rigid complex of two cylindrical compartments — one containing an air lock and a larger adjoining chamber where scientists would live and carry out experiments and research. It would weigh about 5,600 pounds.

Two larger models, one weighing 7,000 pounds and another weighing about 9,000 pounds, include expandable areas where astronauts can work in a shirt-sleeve environment.

Each of the shelters contains a fuel cell system to provide power, an environmental control system to assure a comfortable atmosphere, housekeeping equipment and supplies, a communications system and communications antennas.

200 Take Voters Tests in Selma

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Nearly 200 persons took voter registration tests in Selma and Camden the same day police used tear gas and smoke bombs to disperse Negroes marching toward downtown Camden as part of the voter registration drive.

In Selma 155 people — most of them Negroes — went into the courthouse Monday and took the tests. It was their first opportunity to do so since the Selma to Montgomery voter march. Forty-three Negroes answered registration questions at Camden.

Civil rights leaders said Negroes must keep going to the courthouses, even after the voting rights bill is passed.

Educators See No End to Demands On School Systems of Future

BY G. K. HODENFIELD

BOSTON, Mass. (AP) — There is virtually no limit to the demands which are going to be made on the schools in the years ahead — from educating the tiniest tots to re-educating the nation's elder workers.

"Let us launch, without delay, a grand experiment in human potentialities, concentrating our first and mightiest efforts on the three crucial years from kindergarten through second grade."

Another Paper

Dr. Wilmer V. Bell, director of adult education for the Baltimore, Md., public schools said in another paper prepared for the National Schools Boards Association meeting:

"As we look to the future it is apparent that every community will find necessary one or more fully equipped and fully staffed, comprehensive adult schools, offering to adults — without cost — whatever education they need to meet their community responsibilities."

Other speakers noted the need for better vocational training, special and expensive attention to the high school dropout, new services for the physically and mentally handicapped, the employment of school nurses and guidance counselors — and even more extensive use of school playground facilities.

Where is the money coming from?

Federal Government

Most school board members here acknowledge that much of it is coming from the federal government.

This is a fact to which they are resigning themselves, although for years the NSBA has been a vigorous opponent of any program of federal aid to education.

A popular quip at this year's convention is "giving federal aid to the schools is like throwing a drowning man a line full of fish hooks." Most school board members believe federal aid is loaded with hooks of federal control.

Although the NSBA delegates realize that President Johnson's aid-to-education proposals will probably soon pass in the Senate as it already has in the House, it is not going down without a fight.

The resolutions committee prepared two statements for the delegate assembly meeting today.

Urge Legislation

One urged that Congress "include in the proposed legislation a provision which would establish the right of individuals and local public educational agencies to request a judicial review."

This reflects official fear of the NSBA that a number of the provisions in the Johnson program violate the American tradition of separation of church and state because it provides benefits to public and private schools.

Another resolution would have the NSBA "reaffirm its conviction that all federal funds appropriated for educational programs be administered by state education agencies only" and that "all such funds should be channeled through local public school agencies only, in accordance with state law."

Bowles said educational reform must concentrate on children just entering school because:

"The younger the human being, the more effective and lasting will be any effort to teach him. The educational influence that may be exerted on a 5-year-old in one hour's time takes tens, hundreds, or even thousands of hours at age 18."

The action began Sunday when 24 U.S. Army helicopters escorted by 13 armed choppers landed rangers and regular Vietnamese soldiers in several attack zones. They were met with immediate heavy fire, and a battle in the paddy fields reportedly has been raging ever since.

The U.S. Army officer, an adviser to a ranger battalion, was killed in the action Sunday. The American Navy officer was killed Monday when a Vietnamese gunboat hit a Viet Cong mine.

Battle Scene

Newsmen in Saigon tried to reach the battle scene but were informed by American authorities "the weather is bad and we can't take you."

Other heavy fighting was reported in Tay Ninh Province, 55 miles northwest of Saigon. In an operation that began there Monday, government forces claimed they killed 7 Viet Cong and captured 24 shortly after a helicopter-borne operation was launched.

The Vietnamese Defense Ministry claimed 60 Viet Cong were killed in two battles in Binh Dinh Province, where the government is trying to roll back massive gains made by the Viet Cong in December and January. Ten government troops were reported killed and 17 wounded.

Flood Peril Raised by Rain

2 to 3-Feet Deep Snow Packs Melting In Parts of State

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snowpacks ranging from two to three feet deep were melting, accelerated by downpours in parts of Wisconsin and Minnesota. Alexandria, Minn., recorded two-thirds of an inch of rain in six hours this morning to bring the overnight total to 1½ inches. St. Cloud, Minn., got three-quarters of an inch of rain in the morning.

The Weather Bureau urged residents of the theatened areas in Wisconsin and Minnesota to heed flood advisories as the rivers in those sections rose.

More Snow

North of the heavy rain belt, new snows swept across the northern plains Devils Lake, N.D., measured five inches this morning for a total of one foot on the ground Aberdeen, S.D., got three inches.

At 9 o'clock in the morning in Chicago the official temperature reading of 62 was warmer for any day in March and also the warmest since Jan 8, when a reading of 63 was posted

Temperatures in the 70s this morning were common as far north as Missouri Readings ranged from 18 above in Grants, N.M., to 80 in Key West, Fla. Lebanon, N.H., recorded 22 above.

Steady Rain

Steady rains splashed much of the Midwest from South Dakota to Ohio and thunderstorms erupted southward to central Texas Hail pelted Kansas City and Topeka, Kan., during the early morning after hitting areas in southern Texas

Tornadic winds lashed sections of Missouri and Oklahoma Monday, causing extensive property damage The violent winds during thunderstorms ripped across Springfield, Mo., and nearby areas, in suburbs northwest of St. Louis and at Bartlesville, Okla.

Snow fell in the Dakotas along the northwestern edge of the rain belt, with 2 to 4 inches indicated in some areas. More snow was reported in sections of the Rockies

Oshkosh Treated to New York Brass Group

BY DAVID F. WAGNER
Post Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — With a meticulous balance between the classical and Baroque and the contemporary compositional techniques, the New York Brass Quintet Monday night treated an Oshkosh audience to one of the more outstanding displays of musicianship seen in this area for some time.

The final presentation of the 1964-65 Town and Gown Series at the Civic Auditorium must be classified, in enthusiastic terms, as great.

The auditorium, unfortunately only two-thirds filled, was alive with instrumental sounds seldom heard outside metropolitan concert halls. From the opening 17th Century Anonymous Sonata from "Die Bankelsangerlieder" to the closing modern "Sonatine" by Eugene Bozza, the quintet proved time and again what can be done with two trumpets, one French horn, a lone trombone and a tuba.

Selections from Classics

The opening segment of the concert contained selections from the realm of classics. After the first sonata, the group offered stirring versions of the 16th Century "Canzona Prima A 5" by Giovanni Gabrieli, the "16th Century Carmina" composed of three separate works and the 18th Century "Contrapunctus No IX" from "Art of the Fugue" by Bach.

The audience responded warmly and loudly to these easier to understand selections, but after the first intermission the 1964 composition by Igor Stravinsky, "Fanfare," caught the crowd unaware. The piece written for two trumpets, played by Robert Nagel and Robert Heinrich, was typical of Stravinsky's personalized use of the 12-tone, serial technique of composition and was perhaps too sudden a change of pace and was greeted at its ending by scattered applause.

'Music for Brass'

But by the time the quintet had gotten into the second movement of "Music for Brass Quintet" by Gunther Schuller, another modern work featuring artistic adaptation of 12 - tone and pointillistic compositional techniques, the audience had adjusted to the switch and showed its appreciation accordingly

The final number of the second segment, "Quintet, Opus 73" by Malcolm Arnold, was written expressly for the New York Brass Quintet in 1961. Following a fanfare beginning on trumpets, each of the other members was featured in difficult assignments. Paul Ingraham's chorale-like French horn, John Swallow's expressive trombone and Harvey Phillips' lively tuba were reminiscent of jazz at certain points

The final part of the concert had two selections of four movements each, both contemporary Alvin Etler's "Quintet for Brass Instruments" and Bozza's "Sonatine" were both boldly modern and dramatic as well as artistically demanding.

New Books

Life in Finland Seen In 'Lion Among Roses'

"Lion Among Roses" and Confederate Courier" are two of the new books recently received by Appleton Public Library.

The lion among roses of David Bradley's title is the symbol of Finland, a land where he taught English for two years. The book involves the usual personal memories and accounts of moving a family to a distant place and learning a new language, but also gives account of much of the recent history of the Finnish nation.

Finland now struggles to maintain her independence, though she shares her eastern border with the Soviet Union. The country was part of Russia before its revolution of 1917.

Interesting Reading

The quiet, but vigorous, resistence of the Finnish people to outside interference, as well as reminiscence and the travel views, make the book interesting reading.

Helen Jones Campbell's "Confederate Courier" repeats the witch hunt that was carried out in the search for President Lincoln's assassins. In particular, it recounts the persuing of Johnny Surratt, a Confederate Courier whose mother had been hanged for the crime.

Edward M. Stanton, secretary of war, continued his radical republicanism, farroting out and bringing to trial persons completely innocent of connection with the assassination. Surratt finally was captured in Egypt, brought back to trial in 1867, and, in spite of perjured testimony, acquitted to end the "scare."

Fiction books recently received at the library include "The Gabhorn Bounty," Clifton Adams; "Bright Feathers," John Culp; "Diamond Bubble," Robert Fish; "Lambs of Fire," Pierre Gascar; "One Year in Autumn," Kathleen Krenidas; "Stories of Hawaii," Jack London; "One Day, Wright Morris; "Lost Lands," Peter Vansittart; "Even in the Depths," Amy Wilkinson; "Late Call," Angus Wilson, and "Worlds of Robert F. Young," Robert Young.

Among the non-fiction arriving at the library are "The Divorce," Marvin Albert; "My War With the 20th Century," Pierre Berton; "The Last Loud Roar," Robert Cousy; "Siestas and Fiestas," Alfred Cox, and "Meriwether Lewis," Richard Dillon.

Also received were "Menagerie Manor," Gerald Durrell; "The Bad Guys," William Everson: "Ability to Love," Allan Fromme: "Constantinos Doxiadis," Gerassimos Gigantes; "The Seal Summer," Nina Hooke; "The 'I Love Peanut Butter' Cookbook," William Kaufman, and "Behind Bars," Julius Leibert.

Other new books include "The Addict and the Law," Alfred Lindesmith; "Passports and Profits," Richard Lurie; "Postwar Polish Poetry," Czeslaw Milosz; "Iwo Jima," Richard Newcomb; "Handweaving," Iona Plath; "The Easy Magic of Japanese Flower Arrangement," Lee Quinn and "Adventures in Friendship," Clarence Randall Additional non-fiction includes "Political Succession in the USSR," Myron Rush; "Nobody Said It's Easy," Sally Smith; "Three Coins in the Birdbath," Jack Smith; "Freedom Under Lincoln," Dean Sprague; "Arms and Armour of the Western World," Bruno Thomas; "Buyer Beware!" Fred Trump, and "Lincoln's Scapegoat General," Richard West.

No Surprises Among Movie Oscar Awards

'My Fair Lady' Top Film, Star of Stage Version, Julie Andrews Best Actress

BY JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

SANTA MONICA, Calif AP—"My Fair Lady," like the Cockney flower girl whose story it tells, made good—winning eight Oscars at the 37th annual Motion Picture Academy Awards.

The show won the best picture honor and was filmed entirely in Hollywood. But in other respects Academy voters were generous to foreigners: the four top acting awards at Monday night's ceremonies went to Europeans—three of them Britishers.

Among them was Rex Harrison, the rapid-fire, acid-tongued Professor Henry Higgins, who coached his flower girl Eliza Doolittle into such a fair lady she was mistaken for a princess.

For 'Mary Poppins'

Top actress award went to Julie Andrews—the Eliza Doolittle of the stage but not the screen—for her role as the high-flying nanny in Mary Poppins."

Two long shots, Britain's Peter Ustinov and France's Lila Kedrova, won the supporting performer Oscars.

For Harrison, the honor was the highest in a distinguished film career dating back to 1929.

For Miss Andrews, a bright and beautiful newcomer, it was sweet salve for not being chosen to do the screen version of "My Fair Lady."

Hit in Stage Version

She had costarred with Harrison on Broadway in the hit Lerner-Loewe musical, based on George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion."

But Warner Bros. chose Audrey Hepburn for the film role, in which she did not win a nomination.

Miss Hepburn, who flew here from Europe especially for the award ceremonies, presented the Oscar to Harrison. When she stepped onto the stage of the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium she received an ovation.

Harrison kissed her and they embraced. "This is a very exciting evening for me," said the 56-year-old Englishman. "I feel, in a way, I should split it in half."

'This Ridiculous

Miss Andrews ran happily down the aisle to accept her award from 1963's best actor, Sidney Poitier.

"I know you Americans are famous for your hospitality, but this is ridiculous," she said.

2-Time Winner

Ustinov became one of the two-time Academy winners for his portrayal as the head of a burglary ring in "Topkapi," a comedy dealing with a bizarre jewel theft. The portly, mustachioed Ustinov, 43, London-born of Russian parents, did not come from London to accept the award—the second he has won for supporting actor. He received an Oscar for his performance in Spartacus in 1960.

The Russian-born Miss Kedrova, now living in France, was making her first movie in English when she appeared in "Zorba the Greek" as the much-used woman of pleasure. She stopped on the way to the stage and kissed Anthony Quinn, star of Zorba."

Bob Hope guided the evening as master of ceremonies. Noting the preponderance of nominations and awards for the English, Hope said:

"There'll always be an England—even if it's in Hollywood."

NBC Probes Violence in Our Streets

9-10 (Channel 4-5)—"Terror in the Streets," an NBC White Paper, is a remarkable, penetrating report on one of the country's most explosive modern problems: the increase of crime in the cities.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 11)—"Billy the Kid" is another suspenseful, well-done episode on Combat. The men of Lt. Hanley (Rick Jason) and Sgt. Saunders (Vic Morrow) are wearily trying to knock out a huge German gun, which keeps taking cover in a series of caves. But it takes a cocky son of a big-shot general, with some nervy plans, to really unnerve the boys.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 4-5)—"There's a Penguin in My Garden" on Mr. Novak is a fascinating bit of well-calculated nonsense. Novak (James Franciscus) gets his comeuppance this time by a cool, but determined, modern nun, Sister Gervaise (Vera Miles) who scolds him over her nephew's scholastic ailings.

7:30-8 (Channel 11)—Another man, Capt. Binghamton on McHale's Navy, also gets his comeuppance in "Will the Real Admiral Please Stand Up?" An oriental potentate takes a shine to Ensign Parker, and won't sign an oil deal with the U. S. unless the ensign is made an admiral.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 2)—Again another who-would-have-thought-it kind of star joins the host of The Red Skelton Hour in a slam bang Clem Kadiddlehopper sketch. This time it's opera singer Patrice Munsel, who plays Alvira Egghead, who snares Clem into going to school.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 4-5)—Paul Anka makes his third visit as host of Hullabaloo. Also on hand is Chubby Checker, Rita Pavone, Joe and Eddie, Sylvie Vartan, David Clayton Thomas and the Shays, the Greenwood County Singers and from London, on tape, Marianne Faithful (COLOR)

8:30-9 (Channel 11)—Everybody is certainly busy, busy on Peyton Place. Youthful Paul, a chap who thinks he knows all, is ready to tell George the name of the real killer of his sister; Betty is starting to get very girlish every time she meets Dr. Rossi, and Elliot plans to pack his bags and move to Florida

9-10 (Channel 11)—A good, ingenious cliff-hanger for The Fugitive In "A P B.," initials for the police code, "all points bulletin." Kimble ironically becomes the prisoner of two escaped convicts, who recognize his medical background and think he'd be a good man to have around on their bloody getaway.

9-10 (Channel 2)—The Doctors and the Nurses has a weeper in "Threshold." It appears better than it is because of the sensitive performance of Irene Dailey, who plays an aunt of two youngsters, both of whom are blind.

These Are The principals of "My Fair Lady," named the best movie of the year at Monday night's annual Academy Awards presentation. From the left, they are Jack Warner, producer; Audrey Hepburn, starring as Eliza Doolittle; Rex Harrison, who won the best-actor Oscar for his leading role, and George Cukor, whose direction of the film brought him top honors. Jericho Pupils Visit State Legislature

CHILTON — Seventh and eighth graders of Holy Trinity School, Jericho, watched the state legislature in operation during a recent Madison tour.

The group was greeted at Madison by Wilmer Struebing, Brillion, Calumet County assemblyman, and was introduced to the assembly.

Also visited on the tour was St. Bernard School, Middleton. The parish church has a huge mosiac made by school children. Students toured the state Historical Museum, a potato chip factory and the Shrine of Our Lady of the Green Scapular.

Accompnaying the group were Sister Mary Josine, Mrs. Roman Schneider, Mrs. Clem Halbach and Mrs. Leonard Diedrich.

Two Britishers Walked off with Oscar honors Monday — Julie Andrews as best actress of the year for her "Mary Poppins" performance and Peter Ustinov named best supporting actor for his role in "Topkapi." Ustinov is shown as he received the news this morning in his London hotel. (AP Wirephotos)

HEMORRHOIDS?

New M.P.O. must relieve pain faster and longer than the preparation you are now using or we will gladly refund your purchase price in full.

If you seek more relief than you may now be getting, join the thousands of hemorrhoid (pile) sufferers now turning to new M.P.O. Developed by famous Mentholatum Laboratories, M.P.O. works in these five ways:

1. Helps ease pain faster. M.P.O. contains more medically accepted pain-relieving ingredients than the preparation you may now be using . . . to help reduce pain and discomfort.

2. Helps shrink swollen tissues. M. P. O. quickly releases the proven vasoconstrictor, Ephedrine Sulfate.

3. Helps relieve embarrassing itch. M.P.O.'s medication is homogenized for faster absorption, faster action.

4. Helps make relief last longer. M.P.O.'s more temperature-stable base holds medication in place for prolonged action.

5. Helps fight danger of infection. Proven germ-killer, Hexachlorophene, combats bacteria.

Test it yourself for the next three days. If not satisfied that M.P.O. helps you more than the preparation you're now using, return unused portion to the Mentholatum Co., Buffalo, N.Y., for refund. Available in stainless ointment or suppositories at drug counters.

Boy, 15, Has No Reason for Wounding Four

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A 15-year-old boy has told authorities he cannot explain why he wounded three teen-agers during night time profling with a stolen pistol or why he fired a steel-tipped arrow which struck a housewife.

One of the shooting victims, a 14-year-old girl, remains paralyzed from the waist down.

The boy, who wore a turban during the attacks last fall, made the admissions Monday during questioning about a series of burglaries, according to Inspector Leo Woelfel, head of the Detective Bureau. Picked up Monday morning, the boy was held for continued questioning.

The boy showed police the sewer into which he had thrown the nine-shot, 22 caliber target pistol which was recovered by a city crew. The boy said he had taken the gun during a burglary and obtained the bow and arrow the same way.

are: an appeal to industries to suspend expansion or building in Alabama; efforts to get private investors and federal agencies to withdraw deposits from Alabama banks; and finally a consumer boycott of selected Alabama products.)

Q: What is your response to statements that the boycott will hurt the Negroes of Alabama worse than anyone else?

Accepts Suffering

A: The Negro has demonstrated over many years that he is willing to accept suffering, sacrifice and temporary hurt in order to relieve the larger and psychological hurt that he faces every day. Negroes are now hurting and suffering so severely that it couldn't be much worse Unemployment among Negroes in Alabama is 40 per cent more than among the whites. The average Negro income in Dallas County is about $800 a year.

Q: Roy Wilkins (executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored Poeple) said a boycott is a two-edged sword. Will not the boycott tactic do more damage than good in terms of your own past statements that a minority cannot hope to gain real progress without reconciling some of the majority?

Alabama Struggle

A: I don't think so. I had hoped that we could move through this Alabama struggle without engaging in what I call last-resort nonviolent action. On the other hand, with three murders taking place, with untold beatings and brutality and a continuation of bombings, you have such an absolute breakdown of law and order and a reign of terror, that something must be done to prod the good people The prblem of Alabama is not merely violence by bad people but the silence of good people This boycott is no different from other boycotts — the bus boycott in Montgomery, the boycott of Birmingham The principle is no different from the federal law which would withhold funds from a school.

The whole purpose is to arouse a sense of concern within what I call the people of good will so that they will rise up and bring an end to the reign of terror

Q How do you hope to gain or retain support of white moderates in Alabama?

Social Revolution

A: I don t think in a social evolution you can always retain support of the moderates But I don t think that a person who is truly committed is ever alienated completely by tactics. It is very easy to stand on the outside and look at it Maybe if some of these people had to preach three funerals they would take a different view

I realize we are a minority, only 10 per cent of the population and that we must have allies in the white community But I do feel we need committed allies — but not allies who set timetables and question a tactical method

Q Doesn't the boycott cast you in the role of oppressor rather than the oppressed?

A The initial reaction grew out of misunderstanding When I explain to people what we are doing, they almost unanimously agree It is based on the philosophy that non-cooperation with evil is as much a part of our belief as cooperation with good.

Evil System

Good people can never divorce themselves from the evil system — so we have to do something The best example was Germany under Hitler The world stood by and allowed Hitler to get by with all those things.

Q What about retaliation gainst the Negro?

A I don't see how much more there could be I think the Negro is prepared for it The whole idea emerged from the grass roots communities They already are boycotting in their own communities

Q If the boycott alienates the white moderates, then how are you to achieve an enduring, working racial peace?

A I don't agree with the presupposition When an oppressed people use militant nonviolent means it brings out latent hostility — a kind of temporary bitterness and alienation of people The marches and other demonstrations alienated some people. I call it temporary reaction, that inevitable phase of transition taking place in a state which has been denying the democratic process. All the talk about alienation doesn't worry me at all. There are white people in Alabama who support the boycott. They are small in number.

Issue of Oppression

Through this method we are bringing the whole issue of oppression out in the open where people can see it and be forced to deal with it. This is just a continuation of the period of protest. There comes a time when we move to the period of reconciliation.

Q: What do you want to accomplish?

A: We would want to see some definite commitments from the governor on the voting rights bill It would save us a lot of work We would want assurances that the state would abide by it (the voting bill). We would want a commitment on the poll tax and the whole question of removing police brutality on county, city and state level. We would want a commitment from the political leadership of the state to remove the climate of terror by making the proper statements and speeches, and legislative action that would not give the enemies of justice the feeling they were aided and abeted by law enforcement officials and legislators.

Q: Would you say that Gov. Wallace's meeting with the group of civil rights leaders, his concern over the bombing last week and the legislature's resolution denouncing the violence were the kind of things you are seeking?

A: This is a step in the right direction. I think it does demonstrate some change is taking place — whether a change in attitude or tactics, I don't know.

Allouez Candidate Ballot Challenged

ALLOUEZ, Wis. (AP)—Thomas C. Catlin 31, a candidate for town of Allouez supervisor in today's election, served a one-year term in the state reformatory on a felony count when he was 17, according to a statement issued by Town Clerk Mrs. Margaret Wahner.

Mrs. Wahner said Catlin's name would remain on the ballot but he is ineligible to hold office because the State Constitution prohibits anyone convicted of a felony from holding a position of trust.

Mrs. Wahner also said, in issuing the statement Monday, that Catlin had listed his age as 36 when he was 31 and had given his name as Thomas C. Catlin when it is "Charles T. Catlin."

"It's true," said Catlin of the claim. "Let other youngsters learn that they can never live down boyhood mistakes."

Order Mental Test of Woman In Son's Death

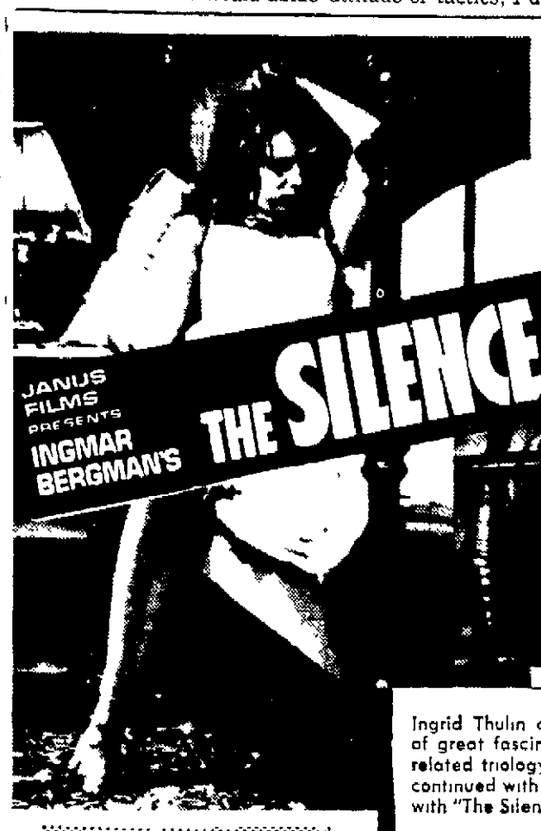

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A psychiatric examination has been ordered for a mother who is charged with first degree murder in the ax slaying of her 12-year-old son Sunday.

Mrs. James Leverenz, 39, waived a preliminary hearing Monday and was bound over to circuit court for trial. Mrs. Leverenz, who is separated from her husband, was quoted by police as saying she could not remember the attack.

The examination will be made at Winnebago State Hospital at Oshkosh by a panel of three psychiatrists who were instructed to report back by May 14. Mrs. Leverenz' transfer to the hospital was postponed until today when she asked for time to stop at the funeral home in charge of services for her son.

Medical Examiner Dr. L. J. Van Hecke said the boy, Dennis, had been struck four or five times with the blunt side of the ax.

Dennis' sister, Dianne, 20, told police her mother had threatened to kill all three Leverenz children earlier. The other son, Frederick, 19, said he was awakened by a thudding sound and went to the living room of the family home where he found his mother with the ax.
